Grand Year in the Street.
The King's Blood Soldiers.
To Live Long, Eat Little.
A Farewell Lynching.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1929.)

WALL STREET closed the old year joyously, with stocks "climbing to many new high prices for all time," everybody happy except professional bears. They have learned that being a bear in this country is "not a business." It's a disaster.

FIGURES tell what kind of year "the Street" has had. The public bought more than 920,000,000 shares, including Steel, 19,809,000 shares; Radio, 16,179,000 shares; General Motors, 43,880,400 shares.

Henry Ford's new British company, just born, sold in America alone 2,488,400 shares, almost the total issue. The plan to let the Britons have and keep that stock did not work.

BROKERS that sold Stock Exchange seats made a profit of $30,000,000, in some cases getting 10 times what the seats cost. But all sold too soon. If you own a good thing in America keep it and it will keep you.

The year closed with money lending at 12 per cent, so even the hard-working banker shared the joy, knowing that his little golden soldiers were earning their keep.

FOR the "haves," as Victor Berger calls them, otherwise the prosperous, it was a good year. For the "have nots" it was not as bad as usual. They must find comfort in the fact that the "haves" once were "have nots." They seized opportunity, and opportunity still exists.

Those that got money gambling, in stocks and otherwise, are only temporary possessors—they will not keep it.

THIS column, about once a week during the past two years, has predicted that values would go up. Note that increase in stock prices during 1928 amounts to $11,385,000,000, greatest gain in the nation's history. And many things are still cheap.

MORE important is the fact noted by Mr. Ecker, of the Metropolitan Life company, that wages amount to 60 billions a year, cost of living to only 40 billions, leaving 20 billions every year for savings, automobiles, radios and other necessities that once were luxuries.

KING GEORGE'S condition worries his doctors, puzzled by his "great fatigue."

The King's blood is tired after months of fighting against poisonous streptococci.

His blood has lost what military commanders call its fighting morale.

After a long campaign a tired army needs fresh soldiers. The King's blood needs vigorous, fresh leucocytes and could get them by transfusion.

That so important a step should be so long delayed is surprising. The King's physicians might well hesitate to experiment with so illustrious a patient. But blood transfusion is no longer an experiment, but a scientific remedy for blood-stream infection.

REASONABLE expectation of life is now limited to 55 years, for the average. Formerly, when open sewers ran through streets, with graveyards on hillsides draining into wells below, life averaged less than 20 years. Science says we already have sufficient medical knowledge to make life's expectation 12 years longer, but we don't use what we know.

THE big problem is extending life for men and women past 50. Barring cancer and other troubles, not understood, prolonging life is not complicated. Eat, sleep, exercise and breathe properly, and living to 90 will not be difficult.

Eating is especially important. We are what we eat.

Luigi Cornaro proved it when, at 40 years of age, doctors told him his case was hopeless.

He cut his diet to 12 ounces of solid food, with 15 ounces of light wine a day, wrote an interesting book when past 90, lived past 100 and wrote to the Archbishop of Venice, "I mount my horse without difficulty and had to live past 90 to realize that the world is beautiful."

He made his wife live as he lived, and she passed 100. Francis Bacon supplies interesting details of Cornaro's life, as do other ancient writers.

[illegible] feature of the old year's last day was not pleasant. A [illegible] was burned alive at Lom[illegible] a little village in Mississ[illegible]

[illegible] be possible for a half-de[illegible] human creature to de[illegible]ch a death, he deserved [illegible] He had murdered the father [illegible] f a girl whom he outraged and [illegible]confessed his guilt.

No matter what the Negro deserved, the fine state of Mississippi did not deserve such an ending to 1928.

As a whole, 1928 has been a good year, even for lynchings, the total number being lowest in many years.

REMARKABLE is the courage of Miss Laura Mae Keeler, a young white woman, who captured the Negro murderer single-handed. He was hiding in a cabin with a loaded rifle.

Miss Keeler, unarmed, went to him, told him "The farmers will surely get you and kill you," and persuaded him to give himself up. She started for the Parchman prison, but her prisoner was taken from her by farmers [illegible] the road, and burned [illegible] soaked in gasoline.

NEW YEAR'S BABIES

Meet three youngsters of 1929—the first to be born in Pittsburgh this glorious New Year so far as Allegheny General Hospital is concerned. Baby Hart (top), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hart, was born at 7:20 a. m. New Year's; Baby Anderson (center), son of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, at 9:34 a. m., and Baby Mathews (bottom), son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Mathews, at 3:05 p. m.

49 GRAFT ARRESTS ON WAY

County detectives today were scurrying about the city with warrants for the arrest of the 49 persons recommended for indictment by the grand jury in the recent graft probe.

The warrants were issued by Alderman Thomas D. Jones on informations made before him by Chief George W. Murren, of the county detectives. Bail in each case was set at $1,000.

Although the grand jury recommended the defendants for indictment, they were not indicted. Instead, District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner used the grand jury testimony upon which to base informations before the alderman to avoid legal technicalities.

One of the 49 is a woman, Frances Yaudzulsky, accused of violating the state prohibition law. Others charged with the same offense are Police Inspector Charles Faulkner, Lieuts. John J. Lynch and John C. Callahan, former Capt. John Loebig, Patrolman William Moore and several other North Siders who were acquitted in the recent federal rum trial.

HERRICK, ENVOY, ILL IN BED

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Myron T. Herrick, United States ambassador to France, was resting easily today after a sudden turn for the worse in his illness of the last 10 days that caused alarm at the Herrick estate at Gates Mills.

Dr. John Phillips, who went to the ambassador's bedside early today at the call of the diplomat's son, Parmely Herrick, said Mr. Herrick's fever had abated and his temperature was near normal.

Barring complications, Mr. Herrick, who is 74 years old, is in no immediate danger, Dr. Phillips said. The sickness was described as asthmatic influenza.

About two weeks ago, Mr. Herrick caught a cold which developed into influenza. Yesterday the ambassador was forced to go to bed and early this morning his breathing became difficult and he developed a fever.

MERCURY AT 10 DUE TONIGHT

A blast from the Northwest is expected to send the temperature down to 10 degrees in the city tonight, with 5 degrees colder in the suburbs, the Weather Bureau reports.

Forecaster Brotzman today announced the cold spell will not tarry long. The high pressure area in the Mississippi and Ohio valleys had spread southward and Pittsburgh will not feel the full extent of the blast.

Last night it fell to 18 here.

Cold today and tonight and then moderating temperatures tomorrow was his prediction. In the middle west, low temperatures prevailed. Fort Wayne had 6, Indianapolis, 6; Chicago, 4; St. Louis, 10. In the Rocky Mountain states the mercury was rising.

Driver Badly Hurt In East End Crash

Walter Eberhart, 22, of 7954 Susquehanna street, was injured seriously last midnight when his automobile collided with another machine at South Euclid avenue and Broad street. He was removed to the Pittsburgh Hospital, where it was stated he had suffered internal injuries. Richard Long, of 434 Diamond street, was driving the other machine, police say.

Avella Has $20,000 Fire, Store Burned

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 2.—A store owned and operated by Joseph Castradale, at Avella, was destroyed by fire last night causing loss of $20,000. A bucket brigade saved adjoining property.

Freshman

MRS. JAMES M. CLARK

CLARK'S BRIDE PITT LAW STUDENT

The law firm of Clark & Clark is in the making. It won't hang out its shingle for another three years for the simple reason that its junior member, Mrs. Virginia Jordan Clark, comely wife of Public Safety Director James M. Clark, is just a freshman in Pitt law school.

That Mrs. Clark was studying law became known today. Director Clark when asked this morning what she proposed to do after graduation—if there might come a time when he and his wife would find themselves on the opposing side of the counsel table—said:

"Cretainly not. We propose to form the law firm of Clark & Clark."

Director Clark, 63, and Miss Jordan, who is 24, were married quietly in July, 1927. Before the marriage the bride was a school teacher. She had been educated at Pennsylvania College for Women and Margaret Morrison School, Carnegie Tech.

Clark has been a member of the bar for more than 25 years. He was graduated from Washington and Jefferson College and later studied at Columbia University. Appointed by Mayor Charles H. Kline, he is serving his fourth year as public safety director.

Ashes Make Travel Safe on Mountains

HAZLETON, Pa., Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Motorists were able to travel the mountainous roads through the Northeastern part of the state today with almost normal safety following icy conditions, which prevailed yesterday, causing numerous near-accidents. Highway forces were sent out on New Year day to spread ashes and by nightfall the menacing roads were safe again for travel. The snow and slush, which prevailed yesterday, has disappeared.

Frat Condemns Rough Initiations

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Unnecessary roughness in the informal initiation of candidates for admission to chapters of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, national college fraternity, was condemned at the final business session of the national convention here.

GAINS FIVE TO TWENTY POINTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Wall Street celebrated the beginning of the new year in the stock market today by staging a vigorous bullish demonstration in prices which carried many issues up $5 to $21.50 a share.

Nearly two score stocks including such popular shares as General Electric, Bethlehem Steel, Anaconda Copper, Allied Chemical, Standard Oil of New York and Pennsylvania Railroad, sold at their highest prices in years, if not for all time.

So great was the volume of trading that the ticker fell nearly half an hour behind the market at one time, and it was again necessary to eliminate small sales volume from the tape.

Radio, which broke to $275 a share in the early December reaction, soared $20.50 a share to $395. International Nickel certificates ran up to $21.50 to a new top at $275. Abraham & Straus climbed $15 a share, General Electric and Union Carbide $10 each and National Biscuit, American Express, Adams Express, American International, Victor Talking Machine, Warren Bros., Purity Baking A, Dupont, Liggett & Myers, Rossia Insurance and Midland Steel Products preferred sold $5 to $8 a share higher.

COUNCIL BAR TO CONTROLLER

A present member of City Council cannot legally be elected by his colleagues to succeed to the city controllership made vacant by the recent death of John H. Henderson, according to an opinion rendered today by Charles A. Waldschmidt, city solicitor.

Since Henderson's death the question of succession has been discussed with Councilmen John S. Herron, P. J. McArdle and W. Y. English mentioned as candidates.

The question of eligibility entered when it was found the law prevented a councilman from assuming another position during his current term.

Another opinion on the subject is said to be forthcoming from the legal firm of Reed, Smith, Shaw & McClay.

In addition to members of Council, others mentioned for the controllership were Attorney Henry O. Evans, William H. Robertson and Boyd Ewers.

The opinion among political observers was that Evans was the strongest possibility.

Woman After New Air Flight Record

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 2.—(INS.)—Loise McPhetridge Thaden, Oakland aviatrix, is after another world's record, she announced today. Recently she broke the world's altitude record for women fliers by establishing a mark of 22,500 feet. Now in the same biplane, she will attempt on January 12 to establish a new world's endurance flight for women. The present record, held by Viola Gentry, of New York, is 8 hours 6 minutes 37 seconds.

Queen Marie to Visit British Royal Family

BUCHAREST, Jan. 2.—(INS.)—Queen Marie, of Rumania, expects to visit the British royal family in London this month, it was learned today. Queen Marie is anxious to see her cousin, King George, now fighting for recovery from the effects of pneumonia. Princess Ilena probably will accompany her mother.

LIVINGSTON JOB MAY LOSE CIVIL SERVICE SAFEGUARD

The Civil Service Commission will hold a public hearing Friday, on a proposal to place the position of chief inspector in the division of weights and measures in the class exempt from civil service control.

If the office is placed in the exempt class it apparently will give Mayor Charles H. Kline the privilege of again firing Murray G. Livingston, without chance of being overruled, a possibility that now looms.

Livingston held the office of chief inspector until two weeks ago when he was fired, "for the good of the service," Mayor Kline announced. Livingston then appealed to the Civil Service Commission for a hearing and his case is now pending.

Winning his case when the appeal is heard might mean little if his job loses civil service protection, it was pointed out at the City-County Building.

Livingston was discharged after his testimony at a hearing of the commission resulted in the reinstatement of Inspector A. L. Nolan. Livingston testified he was told by Mayor Kline to discharge Nolan for political reasons.

W. R. Hearst Offers $25,000 for True Temperance Plan

W. R. HEARST,
Los Angeles Examiner, Los Angeles, Cal.

Glad you can use Pinchot plan. Pinchot plan mailed today to all Hearst Sunday editors.

Your telegraphic comments appreciated on subject of education versus force in getting eighteenth amendment obeyed.

We wish you had sent the telegram as entry in prize contest. I would like to come West and talk with you about this problem of law observance as a necessary part of the return of the country to being law-abiding.

EDWIN J. CLAPP.

In reply to the above telegram from Mr. Edwin J. Clapp, famous publicist, formerly with the Hearst papers but now with Durant Motors, Incorporated, Mr. Hearst sent the following telegram, which is printed herewith on account of the prize announcement which it contains:

EDWIN J. CLAPP,
Care Durant Motors, Incorporated,
Room 2403, 250 West Fifty-seventh Street,
New York, N. Y.

We do not have to make the American people law-abiding. We only have to keep them law-abiding.

And the best way to keep them law-abiding is not to make laws which very large and reputable elements of the community consider unwise, unjust, un-American and in violation of their fundamental rights as free citizens.

I do not believe that prohibition ever will be or ever can be enforced, and I DO believe that if a violent effort is made to enforce it during the next four years by the Republican administration, the next president of the United States will be a Democrat.

Smith's candidacy proves nothing except that the people did not want SMITH.

Nor would the personal liberty issue have won in this campaign with any candidate.

But after four more years of snooping, spying, keyhole-peeping and interference with fundamental rights and liberties by fanatics and professional busybodies, the country will be ripe for a revolution against un-American conditions of this oppressive and offensive kind.

The opposition to prohibition is not merely by people who want to get drunk.

Prohibition is opposed by such temperance influences as the Episcopal church and the Hearst newspapers—I modestly put the Episcopal church first—the reason for this opposition is that prohibition is a failure as a temperance measure.

The more we try to enforce it, the greater failure it becomes as a temperance measure, because the only thing we can absolutely prevent traffic in is bulky drinkables like wines and beers; and these contain the least amount of alcohol, and are consequently the least harmful.

It never has been possible and never will be possible to prevent traffic in compact and concentrated alcoholic drinks; and even if the traffic could be interfered with, every man could make these in his own cellar if he wanted to.

Furthermore, we must not make the mistake of thinking that the country is divided into two classes—drys, who want to make the country bone-dry; and wets, who want to make the country souse-wet.

There is an enormous middle class, which probably is a majority class, who believe in temperance and believe in personal liberty, and realize that temperance can be secured without prohibition, and never can be secured with prohibition.

These people do not want to be ruled by the liquor interests, nor on the other hand by the bone-dry fanatics.

Sooner or later they are going to assert themselves, and personally I think it will be sooner.

Prohibition has been repudiated by every country which has ever tried it, primarily because it did not accomplish the thing it was supposed to accomplish, and secondarily because it became such an unpopular measure that no government could stand up under it, not even firmly entrenched monarchical governments.

Therefore, I think that in offering a prize on how best to enforce prohibition, Mr. Durant is really offering a prize on how best to put the Republican party out of power.

And I think Mr. Pinchot has actually won the prize, because his plan being the most un-American and the most obnoxious will make the Republican party more unpopular than any other plan which has been proposed.

I did not mean to say in my previous telegram that education would get the Eighteenth Amendment obeyed.

I mean to say that education would promote a desire for temperance; but, any sincere and intelligent desire for temperance will undoubtedly mean the repeal or material modification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

I consider the Eighteenth Amendment not only the most flagrant violation of the basic American principle of personal liberty that has ever been imposed on the American public, but the most complete failure as a temperance measure that has ever been conceived, and put into impractical operation.

Therefore, I would like to offer, and hereby do offer, a prize of $25,000 for the best plan to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment and substitute in place of prohibition a more liberal and more American measure, which will secure for the public more genuine temperance, with less offensive interference with the fundamental rights and personal liberties of the citizen.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Councilmen seemed unanimous in he opinion that the income of wer paid city employes compared favorably with wages paid by ivate concerns.

The appropriation was set up as a contingent fund in the city clerk's office, where it will be under the absolute supervision of Council. Increases will not be granted until a thorough study has been made of the entire payroll situation. Malone declared that attention would be directed toward discovering and eliminating duplication in jobs and "soft snaps."

The 1929 budget was closed with stimated expenditures totalling 5,600,000, approximately. That mount represents a surplus of $10,- 00 of revenues in excess of ex- enses. Further, it provides for ayment of a $100,000 deficit in po- ce payrolls and $87,000 deficit in remen's payrolls for 1928, in addi- on to the $150,000 for possible pay ncrease this year.

CROWDING BACK TO SCHOOL AFTER HOLIDAYS

Pupils in Henry C. Frick Training School, resuming their classes today, crowded the entrances in their eagerness to return after their annual holiday vacation.

"HAPPY NEW YEAR, TEACHER"

Pleasant greetings for Miss Nellie B. Enright, teacher at the Bellefield Girls' Trade School, came from her pupils in vocational training as they returned.

SCHOOLS OPEN AGAIN AS FLU WANES HERE

Crisp cold weather and the ringing of school bells heralded an improved state of health among the residents of Pittsburgh and Allegheny county. Visible evidence that the influenza epidemic is on the wane is backed up by optimistic statements by local health authorities.

While many persons are suffering colds and mild attacks of influenza, and pneumonia still is prevalent, it was declared by Dr. Philip E. Marks, chief of the bureau of infectious diseases, that the peak in the visitation of pneumonia apparently was reached on December 26. This statement was made before he had examined the reports for yesterday and today, but asserted that he was hopeful that the latest figures would show a decline in the number of new cases.

All city public schools reopened today and it was planned to resume studies in all county schools. In the city reports showed comparatively few absentees from school on account of sickness. The Holy Rosary Parochial School, Homewood, will not resume before next Monday and the University of Pittsburgh and the Carnegie Institute of Technology have extended the holiday vacation until next week.

Stores today reported an increased number of shoppers, indicating, it was declared, that fewer people are ill and that the general health of the community is improved.

AGED PITTSBURGH WOMAN HURT IN OKLA. BUS CRASH

Miss Almira Trunick, 71, of 1122 Fredonia street, was one of 16 passengers injured in a bus crash near El Reno, Okla., today, according to word received here. Miss Trunick left Pittsburgh last Saturday to see the country from a motor stage coach. Her ultimate destination was the home of her sister, Miss Race Gribble, in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Charles F. Stimson, another sister, with whom Miss Trunick made her home here, had received three letters since her departure. The traveler said she tried to get a seat up with the driver the better to view the landscape.

It was probably on this account, Mrs. Stimson said, that Miss Trunick's name headed the list of seriously injured in the crash. She suffered concussion of the brain, a telegram from El Reno says, when the stage line bus in which she was proceeding from Oklahoma to El Reno crashed into a concrete bridge. Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Wonstetter, Youngstown, O., were among the injured.

Dr. Work Denies Hand in Hoover Patronage

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—(INS)—Published reports that he favored inclusion of a woman in the Hoover cabinet and that he was partial to Mrs. Alvin T. Hert's appointment, brought denial today from Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican National Committee.

"Those who know our President best thoroughly understand that that he needs no referee to advise on appointments and that of a certainty no one has been so designated."

This was interpreted as referring to reports that Dr. Work was to be a "patronage referee' in the new administration.

Friends of Mrs. Hert, vice chairman of the national committee, and of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant Attorney General, have been promoting cabinet boomlets for them.

AUTO SHEIK BAN POLICE AIM

Relentless warfare against men who attempt to lure girls into automobiles is planned by Public Safety Director James M. Clark, he announced today. In fulfillment of the promise he directed police throughout the city to arrest male flirts and "mashers."

Women will be employed, he said, to get evidence against them.

Clark was aroused to action by complaints that have come from numerous persons, who report that the efforts of the "auto sheiks," as they are called, to ensnare young women have lately reached an alarming stage.

The intentions of the motor "mashers" will not be taken into consideration. The mere fact that a girl is accosted by a strange man will bring prosecution, Clark promised.

Clark announced the formation of an "auto sheik squad," composed of city detectives and policewomen.

"It will be the duty of this squad to patrol prominent thoroughfares throughout the city and arrest any individual making an attempt to invite a girl for a ride," Clark explained. "If an 'auto sheik' escapes arrest, squad members must make every effort to get the license number of his car."

Clark urges that young women carry pencils with them and, whenever accosted by an "auto sheik," jot down the license number of his car and forward it to the superintendent of police.

Gas Concerns Lose In U. S. Rate Suit

It had been contended that the rates were confiscatory. In West Virginia the principal dispute was over the items which should be included in the rate base.

Declaring that the 32-cent rate fixed by the Kentucky Railroad Commission was too low the Warfield Natural Gas Company had sought to withdraw its service at Ashland, Catlettsburg and Louisa.

3 HELD IN OHIO KIDNAPING MYSTERY

International News Service.

ORRVILLE, O., Jan. 2.—Kidnaping charges will be filed today against Elias Arnold, his son, Arthur, and his son-in-law, Bascom McHenry, according to an announcement made by Prosecutor Walter J. Mougey today.

The three men have been held in the city jail in connection with the disappearance of Melvin Horst, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Horst.

Prosecutor Mougey's announcement followed a lengthy grilling of the suspects, who had been held merely on suspicion.

Melvin disappeared from his home as dusk was falling six days ago. Officials link his disappearance to efforts of bootleggers to get revenge against the boy's uncle, Roy Horst, Orrville marshal, who conducted many liquor raids recently.

Dissatisfied with obtaining only a small amount of cash from John Eichenberg, 18, of Presto, during a holdup in Toma's Run Road, Presto, one of six armed Negroes shot him in the left arm early yesterday. Eichenberg is in the Canonsburg Hospital.

Eichenberg, George Geis, Harry Power and Edward Biehl, all of Presto, were returning to their homes after attending a New Year's dance.

Carnegie police later arrested three Negroes, Roy Martin, 40; Walter Williams, 35, and Jack Johnson, 40, of Presto, in connection with the robbery. The suspects were held for further investigation at a hearing before Justice of the Peace G. D. Winstein, of Kirwin Heights.

3 HOLD UP PAIR IN MARKET, GET $1,200

Compelled at the point of a gun by three Negro bandits to open a safe while his clerk was driven into a back room under a threat of death, Bernard Portnoy, market proprietor at 2232 Center avenue, was robbed of $1,200 holiday receipts shortly after opening for business this morning.

The bandits escaped in an automobile.

Portnoy and his clerk, Joseph Waldholtz, opened the store at 7 o'clock. The Negroes entered a few minutes later and "covered" Portnoy with a pistol. One shoved Waldholtz into the back room, using the muzzle of his weapon to prod the clerk into submission. The other Negro ordered Portnoy to open the safe, menacing the victim with a pistol, until the contents of the strong box had been turned over.

CANADA WILL REJECT NEW TREATY

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH, International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Barring of American ports to foreigners who conspire to violate the liquor laws of the country constitutes one of the most annoying punishments yet employed by the Treasury Department in the enforcement of prohibition.

This was disclosed indirectly today when it was learned that a British citizen, resident of Bermuda, indicted for a liquor conspiracy in connection with smuggling, has informed the government that he will do anything but go to jail if permitted to visit the United States without danger of arrest.

The Bermudan has extensive business interests in United States and formerly made frequent visits here until the liquor indictment forced him to stay out or fall in the hands of the federal authorities.

Whether the Treasury will agree to compromise, under which the alleged rum conspirator will be permitted to pay a fine and thus satisfy his obligation to the government, was not disclosed.

OTHERS ARE EXILED

Through the same method the government, in effect, has exiled a large number of Americans who have been operating liquor smuggling from foreign territory adjacent to this country.

A number of widely known Canadian distillers indicted for conspiracy at Buffalo, also were automatically barred from the United States. Most of them, like the Bermudan, had considerable business interests in the United States.

The Buffalo indictments are held by officials here to be a definite bar against the negotiation of a new extradition treaty with Canada when American and Dominion officials confer this month in Ottawa.

This government hoped to obtain a revision of the old extradition treaty whereby the United States could extradite from Canada persons convicted of rum conspiracies. Canada, under the present treaty, does not recognize the American prohibition law.

HOPE HAS VANISHED

In Canada it has been admitted that United States had little chance for a treaty to add to the enforcement of prohibition, even before these indictments, and that now whatever small chance that existed has vanished. The Ottawa conference will hardly amount to more than an exchange of views of the government. An effort may made later by the United States to obtain an agreement from Canada that the Dominion customs authorities will refuse clearances of liquor to United States.

Officials said this might help some, although the liquor would be cleared for the West Indies from Canada and probably about the same amount would reach the United States.

PROFANITY BAR HAMPERS 'TALKIES,' SAYS LEGISLATOR

Special Telegram to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 2.—The development of talking motion pictures in Pennsylvania is handicapped by the attitude of the State Board of Censors, Representative Clayton A. Dietrich, South Side, Pittsburgh, charged today. Dietrich said he had arranged a conference with the Governor as the beginning of his effort to reach a "more equitable" agreement on the subject.

Such plays as "What Price Glory?," "The Front Page" and others in which profanity is used can be enacted on Pittsburgh stages without any move to stop them, according to Dietrich. The moment they are made into motion pictures, with "talkie" lines they become subject to the rules of the Board of Censors.

There is talk today of a bill to repeal the act constituting a Board of Censors. An effort is to be made to allign the rules for the speaking stage with those affecting the "speaking movies."

"I cannot see why a sentence can be spoken on the stage of a Pittsburgh theater and cannot be said on the screen through the medium of the talking movies," commentating Dietrich.

Hardly a single play, including many of Shakespeare's, could be produced as a talking motion pictures in Pennsylvania. There are lines in all of them that cannot pass, what Harry L. Knapp, of Delaware county, Miss Katherine A. Niver, of Charleroi, and Henry Starr Richardson, of Philadelphia, judge to be fit for public consumption. They are the members of the board.

"My Man," starring Fannie Brice, is being held up by the censors, according to reports. "On Trial," starring Pauline Fredericks, was cut until it could not be recognized, according to Dietrich.

WINTER BOOSTS QUICK DEATH RECORDS

The onset of winter is reflected in Coroner W. J. MacGregor's report for December. Fatalities characteristic of cold weather are conspicuous in the statement.

Of 218 deaths investigated, 11 were found to have resulted from carbon monoxide poisoning. Twelve persons were burned to death. On the other hand there were no coasting fatalities, which is unusual for December, but accounted for by the absence of snow and ice. Eight were drowned.

There were 32 automobile fatalities, an unusually high number, but not a new record. Three drivers were held on the charge of manslaughter.

There were seven murders, one homicide found justified, nine suicides, 11 deaths from alcoholism, four fatalities in street car accidents, five railroad fatalities, three in the mines, three in the mills and 13 from falls.

LYNCHING TO GO WITHOUT INQUIRY

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Gov. T. G. Bilbo's official notice of the lynching Monday night of Charley Shepherd, convict killer and kidnaper, was his announcement that he would not instigate an investigation into the torturing to death of the Negro by a mob.

"I have neither the time nor the money to investigate 2,000 people," the Governor said in reply to telegrams of protest reaching his office. Arthur Jordan, district attorney, however, was considering a grand jury investigation.

The coroner's verdict stated that Shepherd came to death "from causes unknown to this jury." His burned and mutilated body was buried in the prison farm cemetery after lying at the fire ruins for hours.

The mob which raced over northwest Mississippi after the convict truety killed the prison worker in his home, grew by leaps and bounds when Duvall's daughter, Ruth, stumbled into a prison camp Saturday morning with her story of ill treatment from the slayer.

DETROIT, Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Milling about the employment office of the Ford Motor Company at Fordson, a crowd estimated at 32,000 men today responded to the announcement of the company that 30,000 additional men will be employed.

The crowd was unwieldy and the employment office, which was to have opened at 8 a. m., remained closed until guards could form the men into line.

Many of the men outside the small building had stood all night in the snow. By 4 a. m., the number was estimated at 5,000 and by 8 a. m. Ford officials said there were 32,000 on hand.

Employment officials announced that from 500 to 600 men will be added to the plant's roster daily until the full complement of 30,000 has been reached. More than that cannot be hired daily, they said, because of details of employing.

The initial announcement of the company said the 30,000 men will have been hired by March 1 to enable the operation of the plant six days a week while maintaining the Ford schedule of a five-day week for employes.

Influenza

—kill the germs in nose and throat

COMMON COLDS are the first sign that deadly germs are at work weakening the body's resistance to influenza and more serious respiratory diseases. The most effective protection is to prevent a cold or sore throat from starting by killing the germs in the nose and throat.

To keep the nasal passages free from dangerous infection, proceed according to these directions. Spray the nose and throat night and morning with ZONITE—1 to 2 teaspoonfuls to a glass of water. Hold the head well back and continue spraying until you can feel the liquid dripping into the post-nasal cavity.

This mild solution of Zonite will soothe the tender membranes and help them to heal while actually killing the germs in the nasal passages. Zonite does more than retard the growth of harmful germs. It stamps them out—kills them outright. It is a far more powerful germicide than the strongest dilution of even carbolic acid that can be allowed on the body, yet Zonite is absolutely non-poisonous.

Your doctor will commend your use of Zonite in the atomizer or as a gargle and mouthwash, for he knows the necessity of so powerful a germicide to kill the stubborn germs of coughs and colds. He will be glad to have you use it because it is safe.

Note: It is a well known fact that workers in plants making or using chlorine gas have been shown to be practically immune during epidemics of influenza. During the World War great new antiseptic was discovered having chlorine as its active principle. In a stabilized and electrolytic form this is now sold everywhere under the name Zonite.

Influenza Threatens

Children's coughs and colds are serious. You can't tell by the start of a cold how serious it is going to be. Even doctors and trained nurses cannot distinguish the early stages of flu from a bad cold.

Don't take chances. At the first sign of a cough or cold start with Glessco. Don't wait an hour! Three generations of mothers have put their trust in Glessco. It relieves the cough and breaks a cold right up. It puts a sick, croupy child back on its feet before more serious trouble has a chance to develop.

Every time you break a cold with Glessco you know that's one cold that won't develop into flu! All druggists and most general stores have Glessco.

USE OF HANDKERCHIEFS WHILE COUGHING URGED

Handkerchief-filtered coughs to check the spread of "cold" infections would be the subject of a mayor's proclamation under a resolution passed by City Council on motion of W. Y. English.

Doctors agree that the common "cold," unless properly treated, may develop into pneumonia and influenza.

The resolution requested Mayor Charles H. Kline to ask owners of motion picture theaters to throw upon the screen a slide urging patrons to use handkerchiefs during coughing spells.

The measure asked newspapers to stress the safeguard in a campaign of education to aid the health and prosperity of the community.

SUGAR MAKES EATING A JOY

Why eat unflavored, unappetizing foods?

A change is coming over the well-informed eating ideas of this country. For a time, food faddists tried to make us believe that we had to eat all kinds of things we didn't like in order to be healthy.

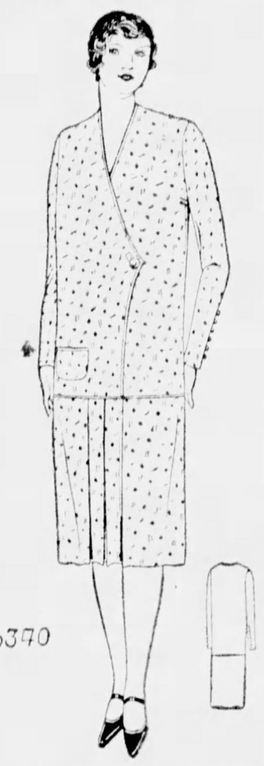
Good sense is beginning to assert itself and we now know that the foods that are good for us may also be the most enjoyable. In fact, if we don't like the healthful foods, we probably won't eat them.

Prominent medical and other scientific authorities are now reminding us that appetizing flavors may be developed and improved by sugar. One well-known scientist, for example, states that "fruit flavors are developed by sugar. Fruit acids are softened by sugar."

The only safe rule for a healthful diet is to eat as large a variety of foods as possible, including healthful cereals, fruits and vegetables made appetizing to the taste by the judicious use of sugar. Sugar is not only nutriment in its least bulky form. It is Nature's perfect flavor. Sugar develops the appetizing quality of nearly all fruits. Desserts of fresh or cooked fruits are growing more and more popular. Modern candy containing fruits, nuts and pure sugar is delicious and satisfying at the end of a meal.

No one should overeat or underexercise, but everyone, in order to be healthy, should eat plenty of healthful foods and enjoy them. The Sugar Institute.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern



A SMART MORNING FROCK FOR THE LARGER WOMEN.

Long waist portions are here joined to skirt portions, that boast of a group of pleats in front, which adds comfortable fulness to this model. The right front closes over the side of the left front in shaped outline. The sleeve is made with the usual inner seam, which may be left open, and finished for an adjustable closing with buttons or snap fasteners. When engaged in household duties the sleeves may be thus turned back over the arm. Figured cotton percale was chosen for the model as pictured in blue and red, with binding of white bias tape. This style is excellent for printed tweed, wool rep and for linen, for zephyr and cotton pongee.

The pattern is cut in nine sizes: 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52 and 54 inches bust measure. A 46-inch size will require 5¼ yards of 27-inch material. For the binding 3⅜ yards will be required. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plait fulness extended is 2⅛ yards.

Grant Bldg. Wants To Tunnel Street

Owners of the Grant Building have asked Council for permission to build a tunnel across Fourth avenue about 67 feet from Grant street to accommodate steam and gas transmission lines.

Dr. David says:

"To avoid influenza do these two things"

"THERE is no use worrying every time you draw a breath for fear you will breathe in some influenza germs. Do the following two things: first protect your nose and throat; second keep your system in good condition.

"As a first precaution, I am prescribing Mistol as it protects the nose and throat against the germs of influenza. Use it every morning, and again when you come home at night. Use it freely; it will do no harm.

"Just tilt your head back and apply Mistol with the special dropper which comes with every package, until you feel it trickling down your throat. It will clear your head wonderfully, relieve any inflammation; it will help dry up a running nose. Gargle it for a sore throat or a little irritating cough.

"As a second precaution I am prescribing Nujol. It is not a laxative or cathartic but a pure, natural substance that helps your system function at all times the way nature intended it to. Like pure water, it is harmless. In no case does Nujol cause weakening of the system.

"Take it night and morning; it will keep you in first class condition. You will have a far better chance to resist 'flu' or any other diseases that are going the rounds.

"The combination treatment of Nujol and Mistol is a double safeguard against colds and influenza. Start this wise twofold precaution now. Don't delay. Put worry out of your mind. The chances are good that you will escape influenza and colds. Nujol and Mistol are on sale at all druggists."

EVANGELINE CLAIMS EDGE IN SALVATION ARMY FIGHT

LONDON, Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Evangeline Booth's headquarters said today that a sufficient number of votes in the high council had been assured to remove Gen. William Bramwell Booth as commander-in-chief and effect a reorganization of the Salvation Army. It was asserted that more than the necessary three-fourths of the high councillors would follow the program of his sister, American commander.

permission to see his sick brother refused Evangeline.

Gen. Booth's wife, in refusing her sister-in-law's request, said it would be impossible for her to see the commander-in-chief at present because it was feared that he could not withstand the excitement. Mrs. Booth expressed regret at having to deny the American leader's request.

An official of Miss Booth's party said she could not obtain any definite information respecting the real condition of Gen. Booth at international headquarters. The staff there appeared to be as much in the dark concerning the health of their commander-in-chief as was Miss Booth.

Delivery of Liquor Ends With Seizure

Thirty-six quarts of whisky were seized by prohibition agents yesterday, and C. L. Grant, 39, of Verona, arrested when, agents say, the liquor was about to be delivered to a house in the rear of 3811 Penn avenue. It was delivered in front of the house in a taxicab and was being unloaded when the raiders appeared on the scene, they say.

Three boys who started off the new year by sounding three false fire alarms in the Lawrenceville district within 30 minutes last night are being sought by police today. A policeman who observed the boys "pulling" the latter box furnished police with descriptions of them.

Stambaugh's Ex-wife Seeks $3,000 Month

YOUNGSTOWN, Jan. 2.—An order for alimony for the two minor children of John Stambaugh and Rebecca Stambaugh Stillman was asked in Trumbull County courts today. The couple was divorced in 1921, and the petition alleges that at that time Mr. Stambaugh agreed to pay $3,000 per month toward support of the children. This he has failed to do, Mrs. Stillman, since remarried, alleges. She claims that her husband is worth $5,000,000.

NEW LAKE COAL RATE FUTILE AT PRESENT

The reduction of 10 cents a ton in the differential between the Pittsburgh and the West Virginia coal fields on shipments to lake ports, effective yesterday, will not have any immediate bearing on business here, local operators say.

Practically no coal is being moved to the lakes at present since navigation is closed for the winter months. Action by the Interstate Commerce Commission or a court decision may again change the differential before traffic begins to move in April.

The new differential of 35 cents a ton is a compromise arranged between the carriers to rectify losses caused by a rate war. It replaces a differential of 45 cents.

Shippers of both districts have filed protests against the compromise, mines here desiring a continuation of the 45-cent differential and West Virginia fields seeking a smaller differential.

HEARING IN FEBRUARY

The next development in the lake cargo case probably will be the hearings before the Supreme Court scheduled for February 18. Following a ruling by the Commission, changing the differential from 25 cents to 45 cents, the southern railroads, including the Louisville & Nashville, the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Norfolk & Western, cut their rates 20 cents a ton, re-establishing the 25-cent differential.

The Commission set aside their rate cut, but the roads countered by securing an injunction against the Commission. The Supreme Court hearings will be on the Commission's appeal against the injunction. If the injunction is set aside it is probable that the 45-cent differential ordered by the Commission will be restored.

The present compromise was made by the railroads following two cuts of 25 cents a ton by northern carriers, and one cut of 20 cents a ton by southern carriers.

CITY EMPLOYES' LIST JUGGLED

City department heads today are studying their payrolls in anticipation of Council's action next week on a pending ordinance variously increasing and decreasing the number of authorized employes.

The ordinance, presented Monday and referred to finance committee, would increase the number of patrolmen from 859 to 945; pumpmen, bureau of fire, from 92 to 98; hosemen and laddermen, bureau of fire, 572 to 580; women leaders for playgrounds, from 19 to 34; foremen, bureau of highways and sewers, from 38 to 39.

Eight additional men leaders for playgrounds are proposed to supervise North Side athletic fields.

The pending measure would reduce the number of sanitary inspectors from 33 to 21.

Calliopes "Doomed" In City Ordinance

Future circus parades would be minus peculiar charm and a local theater deprived of a familiar advertising agency if Council acts favorably on an ordinance pending in Safety Committee. The measure would prohibit from the streets all calliopes and similar "musical" instruments under a penalty for operators of a fine of from $10 to $100 or 30 days in jail.

Increased Liquor Permits for Flu No Law Laxity

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Restrictions on physicians' prescriptions for whisky have been lessened by the Prohibition Bureau in the face of the continued spread of influenza. Under the law, a doctor is allowed to prescribe a pint of whisky for a patient every 10 days and 100 such prescriptions can be made quarterly.

Prohibition officials said there was no letting up in the liquor laws and that the announcement was made to inform doctors that they could obtain more prescriptions if they needed them. It was said that it was practice to give a physician more than 100 prescriptions monthly if it was found necessary.

BOWIE REFUSES BISHOP'S SEAT

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Announcement in New York by the Rev. Dr. W. Russell Bowie, of New York, that he had declined to accept the proffered post of bishop coadjutor of Pennsylvania, was not wholly unexpected here.

Several days ago when he was here he intimated that he probably would not accept the election.

He is the third minister to decline the post since last spring when the decision was reached to elect an assistant to Bishop Thomas J. Garland, of Philadelphia.

Dr. Bowie said he felt his work in New York was not yet completed.

HE CAN HELP YOU

Mike Martin has had a little folder printed, telling how he quickly banishes stiff, swollen joints, achy, lame backs or feet, various rheumatic pains, etc. He has arranged with leading druggists here in town to sell you generous sized bottles of the liniment these great "Stars" use. He has made it a long time for his own use. Athletes on other teams kept Mike busy making his "Mike Martin Liniment." Trainers, coaches, colleges, big league teams all over the country buy it by the gallon from Mike. Now, Mike Martin, swamped with demands for this liniment and directions how to use it, has employed a big sales company to distribute it and they are supplying all the druggists—Mike still superintends the making of it—during odd times between acting as trainer of the American League Washington Ball Club.

ASK THE DRUGGIST

If your druggist hasn't secured a few bottles of Mike Martin's Liniment, ask him to get it. There is no other liniment like it. It works like greased lightning even in cases of chronic lameness, swellings, stiffness or pains. Yet is so mild it can be used on a baby's skin. Mike Martin's Liniment is unquestionably the most effective, quick sure, up-to-date remedy made. Big league players couldn't afford to fool with weaker, slower remedies. No one else should.

WHEN FLU THREATENS

Never Let a Cough or Cold Hang On

Break a cold the first day and it is unlikely that you will contract pneumonia or influenza. "Common" colds are dangerous. When flu threatens it's criminal to let a cough or cold hang on.

Turpo will break a cold right up. Rubbed on the chest or throat it relieves congestion, loosens phlegm. Instantly you will feel the improvement.

As preventive against flu, snuff a little up each nostril several times a day and flu germs will have little chance of getting a lodging or breeding place.

Turpo is an effective antiseptic combining the old-fashioned remedies of turpentine, camphor and menthol. Any doctor or trained nurse will tell you that these ingredients have long been recognized as effective antiseptics as well as having really wonderful qualities in relieving colds or congestions. Turpo costs only 35c at any drug store.

BEATTIE TAKES CORNELIUS' TUBE JOB

Thomas A. Beattie assumed his duties as general superintendent of the McKeesport Works, National Tube Company, yesterday, succeeding William A. Cornelius, resigned.

Mr. Beattie came to Pittsburgh from the Riverside Works of the company at Wheeling, W. Va., where he was general superintendent. He entered the steel business in 1879 with the Phillips-Minnich Company, of Pittsburgh, going to the Homestead Works of the Carnegie Steel Company in 1882. In 1887 he moved to the Continental Works of the National Tube Company a year later went to the Beaver Falls plant of the Carnegie Steel Company. In 1893 he came to the Boston Rolling Mills of McKeesport plant, later becoming superintendent of labor of the McKeesport Connecting Railroad, a subsidiary of National Tube. In 1902 he was sent to the Wheeling plant as manager.

Mr. Cornelius' resignation, ended a long career with the National Tube when he retired Monday, followed closely the retirement of Taylor Allderdice, who resigned as president to travel "while possessed of good health."

Decrees Dissolve 3 Companies Here

A decree dissolving the Kleinhans Company, machinery jobbers, was made in Common Pleas Court by Judge Harry H. Rowand, in response to a joint stockholders' petition, signed by T. A. Mellon, president, and J. S. Miller, secretary. Similar decrees were made dissolving the Fawcus Machinery Company and the Nickel Fabricating Corporation, both Pittsburgh concerns. A petition for dissolution of the Empire Laundry Company was submitted and hearing was set for January 26.

DOVER, O., Jan. 2.—Elzie Hollingsworth, 54, after watching funeral services for a neighbor from his window, collapsed and died at his home at Mocrville of cardiac asthma.

3 WILKINSBURG FAMILIES FLEE FROM FLAMES

Three families were driven to the street when fire broke out in a three-story apartment building at 608 Swissvale avenue, Wilkinsburg, early today. The flames, traced to an overheated furnace, burned up through the walls to the third floor.

C. H. Lohmann, who lives on the second floor, discovered smoke in his apartment when he awoke. He aroused neighbors by pounding on walls and all three families—16 persons—escaped, several in night clothing. They were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. S. Wilson and their daughter Florence, 6; Mr. and Mrs. Lohmann and two daughters, Ethel, 18, and Grace, 16, and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Lewis.

Fire Chief Robert Wallace estimated the damage at $7,000.

Florida Hurricane Relief Nears End

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 2.—(AP)—The Red Cross is approaching the close of its relief work in the Palm Beach area, begun September 18 last, when a West Indian hurricane swept over this section of the coast, spreading devastation.

More than 80 per cent of the rehabilitation work in Palm Beach county has been completed and nearly 1,250 cases have been registered for assistance.

MONEY, ROADS LEGISLATIVE PROBLEMS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Appropriations and roads stood out as the two problems most likely to tax the patience and ingenuity of members of the 1929 General Assembly today.

Discussion of these two subjects seemed to overshadow all others as legislators dispersed to their homes following the opening ceremonies on New Years Day at which the organization of both houses was completed and Gov. Fisher personally delivered his message to the Legislature. The session recessed until 9 p. m. January 14, when the state's lawmakers will return to the Capitol to get down to the real business of the session.

In the meantime, Senator Horace W. Schantz, president pro tempore of the Senate, and Representative Aaron B. Hess, Lancaster, Speaker of the House of Representatives, assisted by state leaders, will work out the committee chairmanships and memberships.

SEE SPENDING ORGY

The problem of appropriations has become acute by reason of the large treasury balance which at present amounts to $35,000,000. Few, indeed, are the departments of government and members of the Legislature who have not plans for the spending of some of this money. Then, because State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis recommended defeat of bond issues totaling $38,000,000 at the last election, on the ground that there was sufficient money in the state treasury to look after all needs on a pay-as-you-go basis, he has urged legislators to vote liberal appropriations to the causes for which the defeated bond issues were urged. Such action alone would almost eat up the surplus.

The perennial problem of roads seems likely to haunt the members. Scores of bills already have been drawn up by the legislative reference bureau designed to add stretches of roads to the state system.

AGAINST NEW WORK

Gov. Fisher, in his message frowned upon further additions to the state system until such time as the building program of the state has caught up with the mileage already taken over.

Others beside Schantz and Hess nominated at Republican caucuses went through without opposition. A. Boyd Hamilton, Harrisburg, was elected to the office of secretary of the Senate; John McKirdy, Edgeworth, was reelected chief clerk of the Senate, and Herman P. Miller, Harrisburg, was again named Senate librarian.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 2.—Centralization of the police power of Fayette county on hit-and-run drivers was recommended by a coroner's jury which investigated the deaths of Miss Thelma Smallwood, in South Union township, and Andrew Duritsky, an inmate of the Fayette County Home. The drivers in both instances failed to stop. No arrests have been made.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 2.—Winter is just starting, but—

William Rahl reports dandelions blooming in his front yard.

Reuben Potts, a civil engineer, while making surveys cut down several maple trees and found the sap flowing.

A Ligonier township farmer reports an early peach tree already blooming.

A Mt. Pleasant township resident is selling sassafras and reports that he killed a small snake while digging the roots.

TEX RICKARD'S APPENDIX REMOVED

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Tex Rickard was doing nicely today after an operation.

The Madison Square Garden promoter underwent an appendicitis operation in a hospital last night while 15,000 customers were yelling their approval of his new $250,000 Greyhound racing plant at its Miami Beach premiere.

Attending physicians said it would be 10 days, however, before the promoter would be able to see his latest project in operation.

What Tex thought was a slight attack of indigestion proved to be acute appendicitis.

The Greyhound track meeting is scheduled to run for 90 days. The sports impressario had intended to stay here for some time, however, attending to preliminary arrangements for the Stribling-Sharkey bout on February 27. This bout was announced last week by Rickard, and to accommodate an expected 50,000, the promoter said he would build a special arena. He would be able to direct these arrangements from his hospital bed.

Texan Killed in Plane

COLORADO, Tex., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Sam Sloan, wealthy Midland, Tex., oil man, was killed here today when his airplane crashed at the Colorado Country Club. Witnesses said Sloan was flying at a low altitude when the plane nose dived, falling near the clubhouse.

Nearly a large Glee Club crowd filled Carnegie Music Hall last night to hear the concert of the Yale Glee Club. Following in the general trend of college glee clubs, not to forget the collegiate student songs, but also to give many classics and fine folk melodies and other excellent music in their programs, Yale gave us a list of songs worthy of best traditions.

Obviously the club has had best experience with singing the older music. In the spirituals and student songs, their tone, otherwise muffled and not too melodious, took on considerable brightness. In rhythmic attack these singers are stronger than in their knowledge of harmony.

J. A. Griggs sang a group of tenor solos in a very pleasant manner, and a double quartet contributed several Negro spirituals. Morris W. Watts conducted.

Ralph Banks, Pittsburgh Negro baritone, gave a song recital in Carnegie Music Hall last night, after some study in Rome and in Paris. There is marked improvement in this singer's music since we first heard him, but he is as yet hardly out of the amateur ranks.

That he means to sing the very best in song literature may be seen after one glance at his program, made up entirely of excellent music and several most attractive novelties that European contacts only could give him.

That Banks chose so many songs of similar nature kept the tone of his work subdued throughout the evening. His voice is of good quality and he sings with smoothness. His diction might be considerably improved, although one might suspect a better acquaintance with foreign tongues will improve this fault, and deepen the emotional appeal of his singing.

William Allen distinguished himself as accompanist, playing the Spanish and French songs with nice freedom.

MARVELOUS WORK OF NEW KONJOLA MEDICINE TOLD

McCulloch Drug Store to Introduce Advanced Remedy; Larger Cities Have It.

THE KONJOLA MAN

If you were told that one single medicine put thousands of men and women back to work in Chicago, Philadelphia and other cities after they had been idle for months with health troubles, it would seem impossible, wouldn't it? And that countless people were so entirely relieved of rheumatism and neuritis that they walked normally again, without cane or crutches, and that this same medicine restored health to men and women who suffered stomach and kidney troubles for years, and complete relief had come in cases of misery where months of costly, expensive treatments and medicine upon medicine had failed—indeed, it seems impossible. Yet it is all true and a man is coming to Pittsburgh on Friday, to prove that these things are true and can be accomplished right here in this city.

The medicine referred to is the new Konjola, and the Konjola Man himself will be at the McCulloch Drug Store, Penn Ave. and 6th st. starting Friday morning at 9 o'clock. He will talk to everyone personally and explain this celebrated compound. He will also pass out literature regarding Konjola and give away free samples of this surprising medical preparation.

Wherever introduced, this Konjola has proven vastly more effective in thousands of cases of ill health than any previously known medicine. It is a remarkable liquid compound for the following well-known troubles:

RHEUMATISM. Especially severe cases, where pains are intense, muscles swollen, joints stiff and rigid. In milder cases of this disease Konjola relieves the suffering almost at once, and this medicine brings the same results to people who suffer from neuritis.

STOMACH, LIVER, KIDNEY and BOWEL troubles. Nearly all forms of misery that arise from these unhealthy organs have been so quickly relieved by Konjola that men and women sufferers were surprised everywhere. It is the action of this medicine on these organs or the inner system that removes toxic poisons from the body and brings quick relief in so many cases. The secret of this Konjola is the way it acts upon the important functionary organs of the body, namely the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. So many diseases and long standing disorders of these organs were so quickly conquered and entirely ended by this new compound that thousands of people were able to give up the taking of all medicine entirely.

After the great accomplishments and wonderful work of Konjola in other sections, it is declared that this medicine is what thousands of sufferers in Pittsburgh and vicinity have long needed to actually reach their cases, and preparations are being made for the care of large crowds at the McCulloch Drug Store, Penn Ave. and 6th St., Pittsburgh.

As stated before

will be here at the McCulloch Drug Store, Penn Ave. and 6th St., this city starting Friday, January 4th, at 9 o'clock sharp, and will meet the public and introduce and explain Konjola. Free samples given.

Hazlitt described "The Beaux' Stratagem" aptly when he said it was "infinitely lively, bustling, and full of point and interest." It should be played in a breathless gallop, not as a stately minuet that is where the production at the Nixon falls. Marie Carroll is a charming Dorinda—she is languishing, but not gushy enough. Frances Starr as Mrs. Sullen is more cold than coy, a little too much Portia and not enough Jessica. Pithy quences which register fair.

gives excellent account of himself. The stage show, "Bubbles," with Teddy Joyce directing the stage orchestra, introduces various song, dance and comedy novelties by a numerous company in an attractive setting. Selections from "The Desert Song" make up the overture.

Academy Has Songs, Dances

Comedy, singing and dancing are to be found in "Dimpled Darlings," this week's burlesque in the Academy, George Leon, comedian, is featured. Laugh scenes include a railway station and a telephone booth. Abe Sher, Alfred Kay and Eddie Lorraye contribute to the comedy. Fay Norman, sings songs of the "blues" type and dances. Harriet White sings "Old Man Sunshine." Ketty Seymour offers "Meditation." A Turkish slave market is a sketch presented with special scenic effects.

Sheridan Bill Has Comedian

The three-day vaudeville and picture bill that closes in the Sheridan Square tonight has as a feature the photoplay, "Annapolis." This is a picture of life at the United States Naval Academy. The cast includes John Mack Brown, Hugh Allan and Jeanette Loff. The vaudeville is headed by Helen Higgins and company in a dance revue. Hal Newman, comedian, monologues flippantly about events of the day. Dorothy and Breen appear as "the two smart girls" and the Three Lordens give a novelty display. Short screen entertainment and news pictures complete the bill. "Red Wine," with Conrad Nagel, will open as the screen feature tomorrow. A new vaudeville bill also will open at that time.

Aldine Picture Based On Song

They've put the song, "Mother Machree," on the screen and the result is being shown in the Aldine this week. The photoplay is all very entertaining and seems to have caught some of the spirit of the song. But much of the comedy — Ted McNamara's — could be deleted. Even though Ted utilizes the hart in his latest efforts, his "razberry" type of buffoonery is getting stale. As to be expected, Belle Bennett does good work in the title role. As the sacrificing mother of moviedom, Miss Bennett is without a peer. Neil Hamilton gives a worthwhile characterization as the son. Then there is Victor McLaglen, whose personality, if not the character he portrays, adds quite a bit to the production. The opening scenes are in Ireland, with a sea tragedy coming early in the story. Then the scenes hit to America. The years pass. Mother Machree's hair turns gray and the son grows up. The war guns boom and then there's peace, with Neil Hamilton marching happily home to the "mother of his heart"—and to the only girl. One of the fim highlights is Neil's singing of "Mother Machree." The bill also offers a number of interesting talking film acts, including one featuring Miller and Lyles, Negro comedians.

Found guilty of visiting the resort, Laura Davis was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 or serve 30 days, and Edward Anderson to pay $10 or serve 10 days.

Legislators Meet Amid Bowers Of Roses

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Torrents of rain fell yesterday to make a gloomy New Year's Day for the formal opening of the 128th session of the Pennsylvania Legislature.

The dreary scene outside was somewhat neutralized, however, by the brightness of the Senate chambers and the hall of the House, which were turned into bowers of flowers by floral tributes of admirers to old and new members.

Nearly a hundred tall baskets of roses and poinsettias were reposing on the desks of as many assemblymen.

HEALTH OFFICIALS GIVE PRACTICAL ADVICE TO HELP AVOID INFLUENZA

The recommendations of health officials deserve special consideration at this time: Get plenty of sleep. Be careful that you eat only wholesome food. Avoid crowds whenever possible. Stay at home and take good care of a cold however slight. Proper precautionary measures now should keep you free from the "flu." It is much easier to avoid than to cure.

With influenza sweeping across the country, many persons have found Vapex an excellent first aid in keeping free from colds of all kinds. The simplicity of the use of Vapex makes it especially suitable for those who cannot avoid crowds. Put a drop on a folded handkerchief every morning. Breathe the pleasing vapor frequently during the day. Use it often while riding in street cars, busses, etc. The strength of the vapor lasts all day. Vapex will keep you free from colds and stop a cold at the start. Get Vapex from your druggist in the little square bottle and the package with the green triangle.

Miss Pearl Hricko of 2822 Woodhill Road, Cleveland, woke up one morning with a bad cough. Then a car-card, on the way to work, suggested REM. Here's what happened:

REM "sold itself" to her

--now she sells it to others

"Early last winter I had a bad cold and cough," says Miss Hricko. "I don't know how I got it but I had it when I woke up one morning. It got worse in a few days and moved from my head down into my chest. I coughed until I was weak. I couldn't sleep at night. Then I saw a REM ad in a street-car and decided to try it. I got a bottle at the West 14th Drug Co. at W. 14th & Auburn. It helped my cough very soon. Since then I've come to work in that same store. I sell a lot of REM--and I know it's good."

Restless nights don't do coughs any good. Many a person has REM to thank for a good night's sleep.

NOTHING LIKE REM

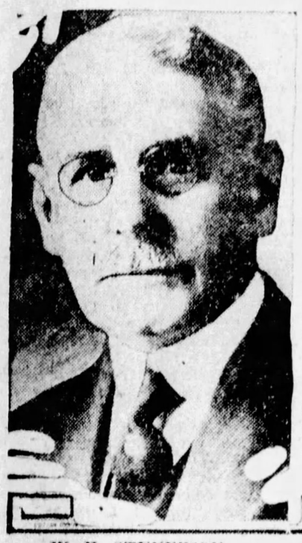
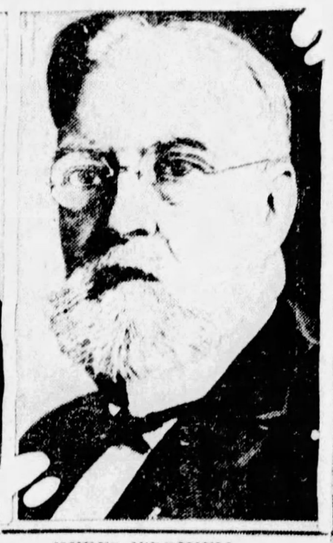
Pittsburgh's Older Generation Disagrees With Sir Arthur Keith That Span of Life Should Be 45-50 Years



W. H. STEVENSON

"Probably Sir Arthur Keith has just heard about our own Dr. Osler's theory," says W. H. Stevenson, Pittsburgher.



HEBER M'DOWELL

Heber McDowell declares the average person is in his prime at 45 and recalls that "a man is just as young as he feels."

MRS. MARY A. LARDIN

"The Lord knows better than any scientist how long we should remain on earth," says Mrs. Lardin, who celebrated her ninety-seventh birthday Christmas and enjoys all her faculties, finding keen interest in everyday affairs.

JURGIS K. SKINDERIS, AGED 105, DANCES

"I'm a young man still because I feel young," says this venerable Lithuanian visitor who does a song and dance with 10-year-old Julia Moneck at her father's home, 339 Coltart square.

GEN. A. J. LOGAN

Veteran of the Pennsylvania National Guard and civic leader for 40 years, Gen. A. J. Logan's activity discredits Keith's theory.

JOHN DIMLING

Still active in business life, John Dimling, at the age of 76, believes Keith's theory the outbreak of a crazy man.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

A MAN walked to my desk the other day and spun the usual hard luck yarn, no money, and worse, no work. The chances are his red nose and a well-defined hangover had something to do with his bad luck. His approach was bad, so bad that for a couple of moments I resolved to give him not a penny. But he wound up and delivered a strike straight across the plate, saying: "I've been reading you for quite a while." I gave him a coin, but with the sternness that accompanies most charity. Gosh, how I envy the man who does not have his public, as we writing fellows say.

And, Walter, will you kindly watch that elevator more carefully? That other guy might come in.

The Hill district, most colorful section of town, is making another feeble effort to revive night life in Pittsburgh. A new club is trying to make things lively, combining a restaurant with a show composed of singing and dancing.

Some of the piffawmers work in two burlesque shows, daily, and round out what might be considered a busy day with a turn in the cabaret. If such stuff is the work of one of the imps he is in for a call-down from Lucifer for his work is very, very dull. Perhaps, the artificial and weary smiles of the tired dancers present a problem too great for even the skillful annd ever-alert strategy board from down under.

THE most wicked spot in town has long ago disappeared. It was a cabaret in the Hill district that catered to white and colored persons, after the Harlem fashion. Even some of the society folk visited the joint with the air of slumming. The man who operated the joint was a notorious dope peddler. Altogether it was an environment that caused quite a few of the visitors to breathe deeply of the night air, once outside the dingy portals of the place.

The boys around town are still smiling over what happened the other night in one of the night haunts. The audience was a mixed gathering of pickpockets, gamblers and a few second-story men. A singer was introduced and sang a song. He was invited by a pickpocket to sit at his table and have a drink. A little later the singer excused himself and walked out of the place with $200 he had extracted from the pocket of the pickpocket.

SOMEONE asked a student in the pharmacy course at Pitt what he found was the most difficult part of the work. He replied: "I have a hard time getting on to how to make those club sandwiches."

Which is a reminder of a quaint and old-fashioned drug store in Fifth avenue, quite a distance from the downtown section. The colored bowls are in the windows. The main counter is of wood, spotless and white from hard and long scrubbing. There is no soda fountain. Only a few brands of cigars are on sale and no cigarets. The shelves run all around the walls and are filled with bottles, carrying Latin insignia that always attracts the customer, who as he waits for his prescription, tries to solve the abbreviated Latin on the bottles.

The store in question does one of the biggest prescription businesses in the whole town. The proprietor has stuck to tradition rigidly and in spite of changing styles from the old days his volume of business is very high. I almost forgot to mention the scales, with two brass pans, and the various weights standing by.

And if you went in there and asked for the plow department they wouldn't have even one plow on display.

DELAY SOUGHT IN ANNEXATION MOVES

An appeal to all civic and municipal bodies and others with whom might originate annexation proposals has been issued by the Allegheny County Association of Township Commissioners asking that annexation moves be held in abeyance pending decision on the pending Metropolitan municipal consolidation plan.

The appeal is in the form of a resolution adopted by the association which declares that recent annexation moves and particularly that of an annexation of a section of Ross township to the city will result in unjust tax burdens to township citizens whose property was not taken into the city.

Edwin E. Klein, secretary of the Township Commissioners Association declares that the Ross township annexation took away thousands of dollars tax revenue from Ross township, which the township school authorities had planned would meet bond and interest obligations resulting from the erection of the new Samuel Hamilton public school. The school, Mr. Klein declares was built to care for the education of the pupils living principally in the section annexed.

This means that the remainder of the township must shoulder the task of paying for a building for which there is now no real need. The building is adjacent to but not in the annexed strip.

Hit by Auto, Aged Woman in Hospital

Mrs. Margaret Dunlop, 76, of Kilbuck street, Glenfield, is still in a critical condition in the Sewickley Hospital suffering injuries received late Saturday when hit by an automobile near her home. Mrs. W. L. McKenzie, of Broad street, Sewickley, was said to have been driving the machine.

MT. LEBANON SETS PACE FOR BUILDING IN 1929

Mt. Lebanon evidently believes in starting off the New Year in the proper manner and setting the pace for other residential districts of the community in the erection of new homes.

Elijah Gray, township manager Monday closed his books for 1928 showing a total of 619 building permits issued for a grand total of $6,287,157 as compared with $4,540,299 for 1927. Scarcely had the books been closed when nine contractors made application for permits totaling $550,000. These permits were not acted upon as it was impossible to reopen the books, but the applicants were told to return after the first of the year when proper action would be taken.

Among the 619 permits issued in 1928, 438 were for private residences, 51 for apartments, five for business purposes, 38 for double houses, one duplex and two public schools.

Four Ask Marital Ties Be Severed

Gregg, of 1107 Cole street, Wilkinsburg, charging desertion; Agnes Gibson against William Gibson, of 5648 Beacon street, charging cruel and barbarous treatment; Florence Breen against John Breen, of 349 West Penn place, desertion; Frank O. Gangwisch against Lillian V. Gangwisch, 256 The Boulevard, Carrick, cruel and barbarous treatment.

Girl Hurt by Auto, Father Asks $20,000

Frank Austin, of 1503 Brownsville road, in behalf of his daughter, Victoria, 12, has filed suit for $20,000 against the Pittsburgh Paint and Supply Company. He alleged the girl suffered three fractured ribs and other injuries when struck by a company truck at Carson and South Tenth streets, last October 23.

Homewood Cemetery Association to Meet

The annual meeting of the incorporators of the Homewood Cemetery will be held in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, Smithfield street and Seventh avenue, January 9 at 11 a. m., according to an announcement by the secretary, R. R. M. Thorne.

Ben Avon Church To Feature Sextet

Negro spirituals and songs will be sung by a sextet of colored singers of Knoxville College, Tenn., at an entertainment tonight in Ben Avon United Presbyterian Church. The Rev. H. Ray Shear, mountaineer missionary in Kentucky, will give a lecture on his work illustrated with stereopticon views.

Service Star Legion Meeting Postponed

Because of illness of many members, a meeting of the Service Star Legion, of Avalon, has been postponed until January 11 at the Avalon Borough Hall. Officers will be elected at the meeting.

LIFE AFTER 50 BEST, REPLY FOLK HERE

Sir Arthur Keith's theory that man's natural age limit is from 45 to 50 years and that he should disappear after reaching the fiftieth milestone in life, finds few supporters in Pittsburgh. Persons interviewed here declare that there is little new in the views enunciated by the distinguished British scientist in an interview in which he took issue with the contention of Dr. Serge Voronoff that man should be made to live 100 years or more.

"That Englishman probably has just heard about our own Dr. Osler," said William H. Stevenson, former president of the Chamber of Commerce. "The average man only begins to 'know what it is all about' when he reaches 50 and the next 20 years are the best in his life and the most valuable to his community. Only one president of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt, 45 when he took office, and only five presidents were under 50 at their inauguration, while 24 were above that age."

"The Lord knows better than any scientist how long we should live and He wills accordingly," was the opinion of Mrs. Mary A. Lardin, who was 97 on Christmas Day, and who does her share of the housework in her home at 722 North Euclid avenue. She says the best years of her life have been those since her fiftieth birthday.

AGE STATE OF MIND

Heber McDowell, former coroner and alderman, yesterday observed the forty-first anniversary of the beginning of his longe service as coroner of Allegheny county, disagrees with Sir Arthur's theory. "After more than 50 years in public life I am as active as ever," he said. "I am still interested in public affairs. Age is a matter that affects the individual. Some men are old in their thirties and we see many who are decrepit when they reach 50. With some this is the result of ill health and with many it is the product of a state of mind."

John Dimling, confectioner, and active in German-American societies, who is 76, said this: "Any person who advances the theory that man is past the agoe of usefulness at 45 or 50 is crazy. There is nothing else to be said."

Jurgis J. Skinderis, aged Lithuanian, visiting friends in Coltart square, Pittsburgh, who does a song and dance act and still enjoys life after living through 105 winters, declares that the "second 50 years are the best" because men then view events in the light of experience.

Avalon Sets Blvd. Hearing for Feb. 1

The borough council of Avalon has fixed Feb. 1 for a public hearing on the Ohio River Boulevard ordinance. The bill will come up for final passage Feb. 8. The proposed route is meeting with general approval of the citizens, according to the borough authorities.

Special Services at Bellevue Church

Special New Year's day services were held yesterday at the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany, Bellevue, the Rev. Dr. John Dows Hills, rector.

Married in Haste Left Same Way; Divorced

An East End girl who married in haste, then left hastily rather than repent at leisure is free of her hurriedly acquired husband—at his request.

A decree in divorce has been handed down at the petition of J. F. Thompson, of 549 North Braddock avenue, for freedom from Ira Lol Thompson. The marriage was a "runaway match," Thompson said in his bill of particulars, after an acquaintance of two months.

The wedding took place February 17, 1923, and on April 1, 1923, Thompson came home and found a note. The note was to the point, and the point was that the bride had left and wouldn't be back.

STEADY GROWTH IS SHOWN BY AVALON

Avalon's steady growth was maintained in 1928, acording to building records of Capt. J. N. Arthur, borough manager. Fifty-six permits were issued last year for a total of $233,782. This is slightly above the 1927 record but somewhat below the 1926 total.

Capt. Arthur's figures show permits issued for 26 dwellings to cost $136,500; 21 private garages and one filling station, $12,482; two double storerooms with flats above, $14,500; three apartments and one annex, $66,750; six alterations, $3,500.

"Our borough, while not making any spurt in 1928, continued its development at about the same rate as the last several years" said Capt. Arthur, "which is quite satisfactory. All of the dwellings erected were of a substantial type.

We expect the construction of the Ohio River boulevard to stimulate building in our community as well as nearby boroughs. There are about 50 lots in the neighborhood of the route to be taken by the new highway. These probably will be built up in a year or two. In North Avalon there is much vacant property which undoubtedly will be developed in the future."

The present assessed valuation of Avalon is approximately $5,500,000.

Greenfield Burglar Drills Window Sash

Drilling through the sash of a kitchen window in the home of J. H. Frank, at 4219 Saline street, Greenfield, early today, a robber entered the house and looted two purses of $28. The lower floor of the residence had been ransacked, but no other articles were stolen, so far as could be learned. The hole in the sash was drilled at a point where it broke the lock.

Chain Store in Homestead Robbed

Sometime over the week-end burglars entered a chain store at 305 Eighth avenue, Homestead, and made good their escape with $600, the proceeds from Saturday's sales. Entrance was gained through a rear door, which was jimmied open. County Detectives Michael McDermott and Edward Frank are working on the case.

DRAIN LAKE TO SAVE SKATERS

"Safety first" is the skating rule for children in West View.

To guard against possible fatalities by juvenile skaters plunging through the ice into deep water, the lake in West View Park, which is thrown open to children of the community, is drained to leave not more than two feet of water in the deepest part.

The skating area of several acres is pronounced 100 per cent safe for youthful skaters and hundreds have thronged the glistening surface of the lake in the last few days when the first skating of the season was afforded.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.

Nothing much in the papers but just what I predicted to you the other day would be in around New Year's: Optimistic predictions by all prominent men who are doing well.

Mr. Coolidge, "I look for nothing but prosperity through January and February."

Mr. Hoover says, "I look for things to kinder drag along in a haphazard way till about March, then real prosperity will start, and continue for four to perhaps eight years. After that there may be depression."

Mellon says, "The country is prosperous if they just let well enough alone."

FISHER SCORES CORRUPT OFFICIALS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 2.—Prohibition will become a practical possibility if corruption among public officials is stamped out, Gov. John S. Fisher said in his message to the convening General Assembly of Pennsylvania yesterday.

Asserting that in discussing such broad subjects he could deal only with generalities, the Governor touched briefly on most of the problems confronting the legislators, but devoted one-fifth of his time to the state's highways.

The Governor expressed gratification that the past biennium will end with a balance in the state treasury of $25,000,000 and warned against this prosperous condition of the state finances causing extravagances.

URGES TAX INCREASES

Chief among Gov. Fisher's recommendations were continuance of the present highway building program through increased taxes on the users of the roads, repeal of the anthracite tax if any tax reductions are possible after appropriations are made and a comprehensive state building program.

Stating that it is both just and convenient that users of the roads should bear the cost, the Governor said that the burden is not heavy to the individual and that "we have demonstrated clearly that the immediate advantages in our operations far outweigh the contributions in license fees and gasoline tax. The recent defeat of the proposed $60,000,000 bond issue for highway purposes, he said, eliminates further use of the public credit in the development of the highway system.

OPPOSES NEW WORK

The Governor said that the 4,500 unimproved miles of the present state highway system places a current obligation upon the state requiring a construction program equal to that in vogue for the last few years.

STATE BOARDS' REVOCATION ADVOCATED

By W. I. GRUNDISH.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 2.—Commissions and boards "pull foolish stunts and we get the blame," declared Senator Horace H. Schantz, of Lehigh, elected president pro tempore, in his inaugural address yesterday.

Schantz urged the repeal of every law providing for boards, commissions and bureaus, saying "there should be no intermediaries between the people and their duly chosen representatives."

Warning against "half-baked bills and makeshifts," Schantz said, "it is much easier to write a bill than repeal one." He warned against haste and "wild, weird and fantastic proposals."

The president pro tempore declared that the 1929 session is meeting under auspicious circumstances with happy and friendly relations existing between the legislative and executive branches of the state government.

"The finances of the commonwealth," he said, "in large measure due to good housekeeping, are sound and abundant. The state treasury bulges with adequate amounts for all necessary and legitimate cause sustained by the general fund."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE PICK-UP

By DON WARREN.

LEE MARTIN had always wanted to feel wicked, if only for a little while. That was, if he could feel wicked without actually being that way. In spite of his conviction that he was a very emancipated young man, the religious training he had received in Dunedin, Tenn., had accomplished what his pious mother had hoped it would.

"Darn it!" he breathed into the soft Florida night, "other people seem to have a good time, to live with a sort of—well, flourish. I guess I'm just too cautious."

Yet he wasn't altogether downhearted. Rolled into a neat wad that felt crinkly-firm in his pocket were eight $50 bills, a five and three ones. Whew, how he'd skimped and saved to get that together! And all for these 10 January days of vacation in Florida—at the most fashionable hotel in Palm Beach.

It was one of those nights of new moonlight and a breeze, with a hoarse, muffled thunder rolling up from the long beaches. Good to be young in that lambent tropic night—but not so good to be young and—alone.

He walked slowly away from the hotel, through the palm-fringed drive. "Well," he said to himself, following a habit he had of solitary monologuing, "I'd like the fellows in the office to see me now." The sensation he had was very much like that he had experienced his first night in New York, two years before, after he had immigrated to the big city with the high expectations of all his friends and family back in Tennessee behind him. The Dunedin Times had said:

"Mr. Lee Martin, Dunedin's promising boy artist, of 1234 Grove avenue, left yesterday morning for New York, where, in spite of his youth, Mr. Martin has been singled out by the executives of a large firm of commercial artists for a place of importance on their staff."

They didn't know that his job consisted of lettering in poster advertisements. Not a bad job, though. Sixty a week at twenty-three. Better than anything he could have had in Dunedin.

Lee walked out to a wide avenue, and turned to the left at random. The magic of the night made him feel ecstatic and a little balmy. At that moment an enterprising darky pedaling a wheel chair hailed him with an engaging, "Ride and rest, boss; ride and relax yo'self."

With as much nonchalance as he could, Lee nodded and mounted his wicker chariot. Soon they were spinning along at a merry clip, alongside a stream of purring limousines. Within the glamorous depths of some of these he caught the flash of feminine shoulders, mascaraed eyes and jewels. But in spite of the fact that he had determined to do everything that a wealthy young man of leisure should, Lee Martin felt uncomfortable.

This was not his world. There was no getting around it. It simply wasn't.

"Let's see the rest of the town," he directed as his chauffeur hesitated, preparing to turn toward the shore drive.

"You mean West Palm Beach, boss?" The darky was somewhat incredulous. Wheel chairs with their gilded occupants didn't often venture across the bridge that separated Palm Beach proper from the less exclusive development across the bay.

"Yes."

This was better, Lee thought, almost against his will, as they reached a quiet side street in West Palm Beach. He saw couples walking together, modest middle-class folk, the kind he knew. There was a corner drug store, too, with its quota of neighborhood girls and boys sipping soda inside, with its sleekly groomed "cow boys" loitering outside. Like Hester's Pharmacy in Dunedin, or the little store in West One Hundred and Twentieth street, New York.

If only he had a girl! Riding down on the train he had entertained vaguely the idea that, somehow, he was going to meet beautiful and very wealthy ladies in Florida. Lovely ladies with whom he could dine and dance; perhaps there would be even a surreptitious kiss under the palm trees, which he could appropriately touch up for the ears of his fellow toilers at the office.

But, although he had seen plenty of girls who could have filled the role to perfection, he found it distressingly difficult to meet them. He was not the kind to push himself forward, and handkerchiefs never dropped when he was around.

Even in New York, where it would have been comparatively easy to pick up casual acquaintances with the girls in the summer parks, with the ones in the little drug store or in the Greenwich Village places where you could dine and dance for a couple of dollars on Saturday afternoons, he knew few girls.

Certainly he wouldn't have the nerve to scrape acquaintance with ladies rich and proud.

Tonight he was feeling radiantly adventurous. Well, he could at least say "hello" to one of the girls they passed from time to time strolling along, singly and in pairs. Shop girls, probably; maybe manicurists and cashiers and maids in the big hotels. Even if she spurned him he'd have a little adventure to remember.

Girding himself for the foray, Lee picked out a feminine figure in gleaming white, and motioned to the cyclist behind him to draw near the curb. He detected a tolerant chuckle at his shoulder which made him feel embarrassed. But now he was quite near the girl. He'd have to go through with it.

"I—I beg your pardon," he managed with great difficulty, "but is this—is this Grove avenue?" It was the only thing he could think of to say; Grove avenue was the name of his own street back home.

The girl, who was small and twinkling in the shadows, peered at him for a moment in indecision. Then she walked closer, still looking at him intently. Lee felt extremely uncomfortable under this searching scrutiny. He couldn't resist the impulse to lower his eyes.

"Well, so help me, if it isn't Lee Martin! And trying to pick up a girl, too! More, I'll bet he doesn't remember me at all."

But the voice struck chords in his memory. He looked up quickly. It was Vivian Slaughter, the daughter of the old R. D. Slaughter, the owner of the bank and the department store and most of the real estate in his own Dunedin, Tenn. He had met her at parties, now and then, and they had passed notes to each other long ago in high school, but the insurmountable social barriers between the two families had made him self-conscious and kept them apart.

He stepped hastily to the street, and was so excited that he gave his pedaler five dollars and waved away the change.

"Vivian! Isn't it funny, meeting here like this—"

"It's funny, and I think it's fate," she said.

He hailed a taxi and helped her in, with a princely air. "Drive along the shore—in Palm Beach," he directed.

"After we've toured the beach I want you to come up to dinner at our home," she beamed.

"But what I want to know," Lee began, "is what you were doing on that particular street in West Palm Beach."

"Oh, I just wandered over to look at the sort of people I—we—used to know in Dunedin. I met 'em, didn't I?"

At that moment Lee surprised himself. He took up one of Vivian's small white hands and blurted: "Do you know, I've loved you ever since high school, and I want to tell you before I lose the courage."

He was afraid for a moment that he'd spoiled everything, even though he'd told the truth. Vivian only looked at him for a long moment, letting her hand stay in his.

"That was always your trouble. Lee, losing courage when it came to telling me things. But you seem to have acquired plenty of it since we last met. And—and—I'm glad you have."

Rainbow Chasing

By THOMAS EDGELOW

Michael Returns to Madge And Forgives Her as Story Closes

MARTHA had called the local physician, whose intense admiration for Madge's heroism after the rattlesnake incident scarcely diminished.

"She needs a long rest, my dear," he advised her after Martha had confided to him something of what had happened, although withholding Madge's real name. "You have gone through enough for a nervous breakdown. People live on the nerves at times, and the old Lady Nature comes along and presents her bill. You have to pay it by peace and quiet."

So [illegible] week-old Madge [illegible] She had not even [illegible] very much. She had left [illegible] turned to the wall [illegible] sensation in her [illegible] remembered [illegible]

Tan [illegible] and stared up on [illegible] the bed, and often Martha [illegible] though [illegible]

"Well, I asked for thrills and excitement," she said more than once as she pulled at that screwy black coat, "and you see where it has got me. Tomsdale!"

But on the Monday, very pale and still a little shaky, Madge came down stairs to begin life anew.

"I'm going to forget it, Martha," she confided, as they sat together shelling peas on the back porch.

"I wish you would," the other answered with a quick look at her. "But remember, you never know what's waiting for you—just around the corner."

"I don't expect anything pleasant around the corner for me," Madge replied pensively. "But I have lots of details to take care of, Martha."

"What details?"

"I must go to New York soon, sweet as you have been to me. I must see about making my living in some business or other."

"You stay right here and help me on the farm. There'll be lots to do when I start canning next month. And what would Celeste do without you?" Martha demanded affectionately.

"You're very kind, and very kind," Madge responded. "Still, I shall have to do something. I have a few thousands from my father's insurance, but not enough to live on. Then there's another thing. For all I know, Michael doesn't know where I am. His lawyers should be able to get in touch with me. I know nothing of divorce laws, but I will do everything I can to get Michael his freedom with as little publicity as possible. I mustn't forget him."

The telephone rang in the house.

"Go and see who it is, dear," Martha requested.

Madge found that New York was calling and then she was listening to Frances Storrs.

"I've been away, child," Frances said. "What's happened to you. I read in the paper about Carroll."

"Didn't you get my letter, Frances?" Madge asked, surprised.

"What letter?"

"I wrote you a few days ago," Madge explained. "If you didn't get it, how did you know where I was to telephone?"

"I didn't know," Frances replied.

"And I never got any letter from you. I called up Michael Winchester, and he told me where you were."

"Michael told you?"

"Certainly. Michael told me, and he didn't tell me anything else, either, seemed very busy, and just snapped out where you were, and then hung up on me," Frances complained. "But what's it all about, and why are you neglecting some old friends?"

"I shall be in New York in a few days, and I'll tell you everything then," Madge promised. "It isn't anything I can talk of over the wire."

She returned to Martha and explained what Frances had said.

"I can't understand Frances not getting my letter," Madge said thoughtfully. "But that's not so strange as that Michael should know where I am. You know, Martha, I have only been married to a very rich man for such a very little while, and yet I have learned that wealth seeds [illegible] oh, sort of goblin [illegible] They know . . . everything . . ."

CHAPTER XXV.

MADGE hardly slept that night. She was restless, and try as she might she could not keep her thoughts from Michael.

Before she had had no hope. She had known that Michael's pride of name and position, a stern code of ethics would make it impossible for him to forgive her. She had known it, she had not deluded herself to false hopes. Yet so complex is the human mind that now she felt all the more keenly after her telephone conversation with Frances.

Michael then had known her address. The facts were [illegible] everything by some [illegible] means. And he had kept a cold and forbidding silence for [illegible] merciless than any [illegible] her. It was as though Michael had said to her: "Let your own conscience judge you!"

She knew that pride and his sense of honor would make forgiveness impossible, but now that she was aware that he could have communicated with her she realized that his love, too, was dead. Nothing [illegible] remained.

She [illegible] would not stay on. She would go to New York and seek [illegible] work. She began to [illegible] money [illegible] would be with which to open [illegible] shop. She thought her capital would be sufficient if [illegible] carefully.

At [illegible] Madge made known her decision.

"Tomorrow I must go away," she said.

Slowly Madge made her way out of the house. She walked down the little twisting path and sat with the moss [illegible] by the waterfall.

She sat there dreaming, dreaming of the past—dreaming of the future.

This interlude of rest was over. On the morrow she must leave these peaceful scenes to battle with life and its stern realities.

She had brought with her the tabloid newspaper that had arrived that morning. Idly she turned its pages. A name under the photograph of a proud-looking girl caught her eye as she read of the arrival in New York on the preceding day of the Duchess of Pendale.

Her thoughts flew back to her wedding day—such a little time ago according to the calendar, such endless years according to what she had since suffered. How flattered she had been at receiving that cablegram.

She went on to read that the Duchess had instituted divorce proceedings against her husband and had returned to the land of her birth to visit her brother, Michael Winchester.

Obviously, then, Madge decided, Michael would take his sister with him on his trip to Africa, and she searched eagerly to see if the date of his sailing were mentioned. But she did not find it.

Then she started, as she saw someone coming towards her down the little path. Her hand went to her throat as she saw who it was. A funny quick pulse beat in her temples.

It was Michael!

But what could he want? Why had he come to seek her out? To upbraid her? To discuss the divorce?

While these questions raced through her mind, she had to fight back an overwhelming desire to run to his arms.

He came quickly up to her, and as he removed his hat, Madge noticed the lines of suffering etched on his grave face.

And then he smiled!

"Madge, Madge, my sweet!"

She rose wonderingly. Had she heard aright?

"Michael!"

There was no room for doubt, for Michael was stretching out his arms to her.

"You mean—you mean—?" Madge faltered.

"I mean, my sweet, that I love you," he said tenderly. "My gratitude to this Mrs. Ferris is beyond words. She sent me the letter you wrote to Frances Storrs, with a brief note that you had written it far more clearly than she could hope to. I was in the city, about to sail, but returned last night to Long Island with the Padre. I read the letter you had written Frances, and then I shut myself up alone."

Madge was standing before him, a strange and happy light in her eyes.

"And then?" she asked softly.

"I understood . . . And understanding is love, my sweet! The Padre and I drove, leaving almost at dawn, and I think my arms are hungry, my darling!"

With a little sob in her throat, she clung to him, rejoicing in those protecting arms that in one moment seemed to ward off all her past suffering and unrest.

His lips met hers and a little shiver of delight went through Madge as she felt this dear mouth crushing closer and closer on hers.

And as it was made clear to her that this was love, this new delight that flooded her whole being, Madge knew the supreme thrill of her life.

THE END.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.

MOTHER AND DAD THINK THAT I AM SEEING TOO MUCH OF YOU BOYS, SO I CANT MAKE WHOOPEE WITH YOU ANY MORE!
THEY HAVE BOUGHT A NEW GRAND RADIO, SO I WILL STAY HOME MORE AND NOT GO OUT WITH YOU DUMB-BUNNYS SO MUCH!
SO GET BULL AND NOISY AND PHWHEN AND COME ON AROUND THIS EVENING!
GREAT!
AND I'LL BRING SOME CONFETTI AND SOME CHINESE LANTERNS AND YOU'LL NEVER KNOW THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN YOUR HOUSE AND A NIGHT CLUB!

'My dear, I'm so WEAK I could WOBble—I mean I've been having aCUTE hysTERics ever since I encountered ARab today, my dear, because you see I GLIBly told him about the HOME situation at this point and how MOTHer and DADdy had decided I was seeing too MUCH of the BOY friends and going on BENDers and everything entirely too OFten and, my dear, he was TOO upSET until I hastily added the detail about the RAdio and told him to bring Bull and Noisy and PHWHEN around to the house tonight, and we'd all sit HEAVily listening to the latest STAtic—can you COPE with it? Well, ANYways, Arab brightened VISibly at the prospect and I NEARly exPIRED with a faint rePORT because he EAGerly announced that he'd bring over some conFETTi and Chinese LANterns and things and we'd never know the DIFference between HOME and a NIGHT club before we got THROUGH! Have you ever HEARD of anything so simply MUltiating? ACtually, my dear, I NEARly exPIRED with MIRTH, but I'm HONestly all aGOG about this EVE because I can just PICture the expressions of BOREdom on the COUNtenances of these pipsqueaks when we're ALL ensconced around the HEARTH effect, twiddling our THUMBS vacantly and listening to the RAdio whistle for the next STAtion, do you know what I mean?"

A Motherless Child

DEAR MISS GALE:

Will you please help me out by answering these questions. Is a girl of 18 too young for a fellow of 24? Can love at first sight be true love? Can a girl of 19 be right and think of getting married? Is it right for a girl to give up her religion for a fellow? Does it make any difference if a girl is a little taller than her intended husband? Is it right to accept a hope chest before an engagement ring? Is it right to accept money from a steady fellow for permanent waves, etc.? Thanking you, I am,

A MOTHERLESS CHILD.

Six years is not too great a difference in ages. Loves at first sight may be real, but only time can prove it. Sometimes it turns out to be only infatuation. A girl of 19 is too young to marry, in my opinion. The problem of religious differences can be worked out only in the individual cases. I couldn't possibly give an answer to that. Height should make no difference in love. Don't accept such valuable presents from a man unless you are engaged to him, and by no means accept money.

I Think Not

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am very much in love with a boy [illegible] We have been friends for years we have been [illegible] girls for only six months and are engaged. We get along wonderfully. We go to theaters and [illegible] a lot alike. Now a friend of his tells me that perhaps [illegible] after we're married I'll find [illegible] me because he was [illegible] I am not his first girl, and seems to know [illegible] to women. He has always been wonderful to me. He does everything to please me, takes me every place and has given me a gorgeous ring. And most of all, in public or private, he is the perfect gentleman. In all the time I've known him he has never once given me one unkind word or look. His every look, word and deed [illegible] for me. Now, do you think I need to worry? Need I doubt that it is real love? Thanking you, I am

"I THINK NOT."

He certainly seems to be in love with you, my dear. But a boy of 20 is too young to be sure of himself, in my opinion. Better wait for another year or so before marrying.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Season Virtually Over As Far as 1928 Bud Is Concerned

THE holiday season, ending yesterday with New Year's day, was a grande finale for the career of the debutante of 1928. Of course there will be a few entertainments for the buds during these first January days, but the debutantes themselves deem the season practically over as far as they are concerned, and are now thinking about trips to the South, to Europe, or to one of the other popular winter resorts.

From now until February discovers a city nearly deserted by its social registerites, January brides will be the guests of honor at most of the social events.

I don't mean to imply that weddings will crowd the January calendar—in fact there will be about five weddings, but most noteworthy ones, scheduled for this month.

One of these five will take place Saturday—that of Eleanor McCargo, daughter of the Grant McCargos of Woodland road, and William Lloyd Standish, III, son of the Thomas Anderson Standishes, of Sewickley.

THE Alexander L. Robinsons and Mary Oliver, who came out last year, and Henry Oliver, Jr., Mary's brother, will give a small dinner-dance on Friday evening in the Allegheny Country Club in honor of Eleanor. There'll not be a large rehearsal dinner since Eleanor has decided upon a small home wedding, and will have only one atendant, as I've mentioned before.

Mrs. Alexander L. Robinson, by the way, was Martha Brooks, daughter of the Frank Faber Brookses, of Sewickley, before her marriage on October 15.

Mrs. Alan S. Humphreys gave a tea in her home on Kinsman road Monday afternoon in honor of Eleanor.

ANOTHER January bride prominent socially will marry tomorrow—Marjorie Babcock, daughter of the late Frederick R. Babcocks. Of course, you know she is marrying James McKay, son of the J. Albert McKays, of Amberson avenue.

She has been honored at many an entertainment during the last few weeks. Today Louise Latimer Reed, debutante daughter of the W. Edgar Reeds, of Fifth avenue, gave a luncheon for the bridal party in her home on Fifth avenue. Pink roses decorated the luncheon table, lighted by tall pink tapers.

The Reed home, by the way, has seen much entertaining of late. Besides entertainments for a debutante daughter, the Reed home was the scene on the last day of the old year of a tea for the members of the Yale Glee Club, and the debutante set, given by the Reeds' son, W. McCook Reed.

AN engagement of interest is announced today. It is the betrothal of Anna Margaret Snow, daughter of the George Snows, of "Grey Manor," Northumberland street, to John Nusser Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Harper, of this city.

Miss Grace Fagan, Miss Priscilla Hall and Mrs. A. Verner Wasson are the puppeteers controlling the actions of the Big Bear, Capt. Kidd and the Little Lame Prince, in preparation for the Junior League marionette show. Performances will be given tomorrow morning in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club annex and Saturday afternoon in St. Stephen's parish house, Sewickley.

YOU may have missed seeing yesterday's holiday paper, and I want you to be sure to know about Rhoda Drew's engagement to O. Parker McComas, of New York and Baltimore. Rhoda is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. James B. Drew, of Morewood avenue, you know, and is a member of the Junior League. Her fiance is a son of Mrs. Oliver P. McComas, of Baltimore.

MR. AND MRS. PHILIP COPLON, of Fair Oaks street, Squirrel Hill, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sylvia Bernice Coplon, to Ivan Louis Gelder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gelder, of Northumberland street, at a dinenr in the reception room of the William Penn Hotel on Sunday evening.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the marriage of Miss Florence M. Koenigsberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Koenigsberg, of St. Louis, and Frank W. Weberman, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Weberman, of Wilkins avenue, which was solemnized Sunday in the Savoy-Plaza, New York. Mr. and Mrs. Weberman are sailing today for a trip abroad and upon their return will be at home in this city.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM HENRY WAGNER, of Morningside avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Emily M. Wagner, to William E. Hare, of this city. No wedding date has been set.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES J. RIEGER, of Oak Hill Farms, Wildwood, Pa., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise M. Rieger, to Clayton D. Kuester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Kuester, of Avalon.

* * *

WILLIAM M'PHERSON, of Nevin avenue, Sewickley, has announced the engagement of his daughter, Miss Mae Irene McPherson, to Samuel Carlisle Mahood, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mahood, of Edgewood. No wedding date has been set.

* * *

AT a bridge luncheon given Saturday in her home in Arch street, North Side, Mrs. James W. Orr announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Lorena G. Orr, to Earnest N. Heimstadter, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Heimstadter, of McKeesport. Six tables were in play.

* * *

MRS. GERTRUDE WEBB SCANDRETT, of Briar Cliff road, Ben Avon Heights, has announced the marriage of her sister, Miss Elizabeth Rea Webb, and Herbert W. Weidenthal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Weidenthal, of Cleveland, which was solemnized yesterday at 11:30 o'clock in the Scandrett's home by the Rev. Dr. A. R. Robinson. After a short southern trip, Mr. and Mrs. Weidenthal will be at home in Cleveland.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Efficient Care of Infant Essential

SOMEBODY mailed me a poem. It may not amount to much according to the rules of poetry, but it heralds an important child.

DR. COPELAND

Here is the first stanza:

"Tender and happy as you may be at the advent of a baby
(And I wish we could have it left on our doorstep),
You will perhaps discover that the greatest problems never
Begin the coming of a girl or boy.
Love can't be your sole reliance—
It should aid, not hamper science.
And, although your heart with ecstasy may throb,
Sense and wisdom, too, are needed.
Here's the motto to be heeded:
Know Your Job.
Building bodies strong and ruddy
Is a task for toil and study.
Know Your Job."

I don't vouch for the technical features of this poem, but I thoroughly indorse its teachings. No mother can succeed fully unless she knows her job.

Love is found in the heart of every mother. If need be, she is ready to die for her child. But as the poet said, "love can't be the sole reliance." "Building bodies strong and ruddy is a task for toil and study."

If mother and baby are fortunate enough to be able to feed on breast-feeding all is well. Under those circumstances there is little to worry over. Regularity in the feedings, and attention to fresh air and sunlight, will make the future of the baby very bright.

But when weaning time comes, or in case it is found necessary to take the breast away soon after the baby's birth, then, indeed, the mother has a real job on her hands. It is true, too, that if that baby is to thrive, she must know her job, and every detail of that job.

Preparing the feedings requires the greatest care. The utensils and the mother's hands must be clean.

When I say "clean," I mean a lot more than the removal of visible dirt. The hands of the mother who prepares the feedings must be just as thoroughly cleansed as the surgeon cleanses his.

The utensils for preparing the milk must be boiled and kept in a perfectly clean place. The bottles must be prepared with the same care.

I need not tell you that the milk must come from healthy and clean cows. It must be kept in a temperature low enough to keep it free from the suspicion of acid.

The particular formula will be prescribed by your doctor. But there must be greatest accuracy in measuring out the proportions of milk, water, and other ingredients.

Then the feedings must be given on a rational schedule. Feeds by the hour must not be valued like minutes.

You can see that to know the job, it is exactly essential to the welfare. Indeed to the very life of the infant. It is indeed true that "building bodies strong and ruddy is a task for toil and study."

Know Your Job.

Answers to Health Queries

V. M. Q.—What will remove puffs under the eyes and smooth out wrinkles due to frowning?

A.—Find the cause of the puffs. A heart or kidney condition, dissipation may all be possible causes. Examination will determine the necessary treatment. Gentle massage using a good cold cream and massaging with the tips of the fingers should be helpful to some extent.

D. A. Q.—What can be done for blackheads and pimples? What will remove freckles?

2.—What will correct bowlegs?

3.—What will strengthen the eyes besides wearing glasses? I am only a young girl.

A.—Proper diet and elimination should help to correct the blemishes. Equal parts of lemon juice and peroxide will act as a bleach for freckles.

2.—See an orthopedist for his advice. This condition is more easily corrected in early childhood than in later years.

3.—Properly fitted glasses should strengthen the eyes. Have a careful examination and follow your doctor's advice.

F. F. Q.—What can I do to gain in weight?

A.—Improve your general health and your entire system will benefit.

K. C. K. Q.—I have dizzy spells, feel nervous and feel lightheaded when out in a crowd. My knees feel weak and numb at times. What would you advise?

A.—Poor circulation and nervousness are probably responsible for your condition. Build up your health in general and your entire system, including your nerves, will benefit.

"Sax" Drives Away Thoughts of Cold!

He thought he couldn't play that night, but the cold he'd caught that morning had departed. Most professional people know what really knocks a cold in a few hours; many go through the winter without any trouble from colds. It's a compound that comes in little white tablets. Takes one, and that first snuffle is just about the last; or several tablets if you've let the cold go until it's serious.

Pape's Cold Compound is all you ask for; and the druggist charges 35c for a package, and it never seems to fail for anybody.

Underwood Outlines His Plans for the Winter Sojourn

THE footsteps and voices of our husbands drew nearer and Lillian threw open her door.

"Madge is in here with me," she said. "Come on in and give us the low down on old Phil. Did he get away without sentencing Mary to be shot at daybreak?"

"I told you we'd find them together," Harry Underwood turned to Dicky, ignoring for a breath his wife's question. "Oh! Sorry, Lil. Yes, the old boy has departed without executing anybody, although I'm sure he clamped a pair of handcuffs on Mary early in the tennis game. At any rate she hardly looked at Noel after that."

"I wish I were the mistress of a castle back in the middle ages," Lillian said fervently. "What I wouldn't do to that old lad in the way of boiling oil and red hot armor and a few other trifling pleasantries!"

"Well! I'd keep the fire stirred myself," her husband said, while Dicky growled some indistinct comment which I knew was an anathema of my employer.

"The poor old chap doesn't seem to have a friend on earth," I said, trying to speak lightly, but conscious that my husband's eyes were on me. "However, I'm with you in saying that he doesn't deserve one. He really is too ridiculous as well as cruel in his efforts to separate Mary and Noel."

"There's going to be an explosion in that direction soon, or I never have watched human beings under stress," Harry Underwood declared. "Mary may be able to hold herself in hand, but Noel's nearly breaking. I can tell you. If our august young royal highness doesn't look out she's likely to find herself tossed over the nearest fence while Noel attempts the Lochinvar stunt with Mary. However, it wasn't to talk about the young folks that the old Dicky bird and I fluttered up to the nest. We've just cooked up the grandest little stunt for the winter that anybody ever thought of."

"You thought of it," Dicky put in hastily, and I caught the tail of a furtive embarrassed glance which he sent in my direction.

"You bet," Mr. Underwood said complacently. "I'm taking all the bouquets which soon will be thrown at the idea. But justice must be done. You not only agreed to it, but added a few embellishments of your own."

"If you'd stop the asides and read your part straight, we might be able to find out what it's all about," his wife told him, and he swept her a mocking bow.

"'Always my best friend and severest critic,'" he intoned, "I'll take your cue at once. It's very simple. The Dicky-bird and I have been planning his housekeeping arrangements for the winter—oh! and Madge's, too, of course."

"Your type would," his wife told him. "Are you sure you haven't rearranged mine while you were about it?"

My pulses were racing with the heady knowledge that it was in this way Dicky was capitulating from his demand that I remain in the country for the winter and give up my work with Philip Ventzen. I knew also that Lillian adroitly was fostering the idea that we were both a bit resentful of having our housekeeping plans made for us, a notion that she knew would appeal to Dicky's wounded masculine dignity.

"No, light of my life!" Mr. Underwood apostrophized. "It is because your plans were so unusually well laid that we have been able to fit in one for the Dicky-bird and his mate. You remember that suite of rooms next yours at the hotel?"

"Indeed I do," Lillian said excitedly, "the one they wouldn't let undivided, so that you could have an extra room for working?"

"The same," he told her. "Well, the Dicky-bird and I have figured out that if I take that room the rest of them will do admirably for him and Madge and perhaps Mary."

All this because rich, red blood is Nature's substance for building and sustaining the body.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S. S. S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—thru the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads, but thanks to S.S.S., I got rid of them. My face now has a smooth feeling. I think S.S.S. does many wonders for the system. Besides giving me a clear complexion, it gave me a healthful look." Miss Angela Annunzio, 1007 S. Racine Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Quick relief for COLDS since 1889

The sneeze that ruined a career

His father was a Major-General, and great things were predicted for him at the military academy. One day, as he was in the ranks at rigid attention for inspection, just as the visiting dignitaries passed to the music of the ninety-piece band, his head jerked back. His mouth flew open. He sneezed! A loud explosive bray.

It is easy to see how the resulting humiliation might well have ruined his career. Yet no one needs such a reason to want to be rid of a cold quickly, to wish to throw it off before it can become as serious as grip or "flu."

The original and largest selling remedy in the world is GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Many millions every year have proved its power against colds, have seen its tonic and laxative benefits help nature to nip the trouble quickly. For any cold, wisdom suggests these two precautions: First, immediate treatment. Second, the right treatment. That is why it is important to emphasize GROVE'S when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

He Rises

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When a couple are having dinner together in a restaurant and a girl, a friend of either or of both, stops at the table to speak a few words, should the gentleman rise?

DINER-OUT.

YES. The man who doesn't rise under these circumstances is a boor.

To Prospective Brides

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When congratulating a newly married couple I understand that it is proper to congratulate the groom, but what should one say to the bride, aside from wishing her happiness? Isn't there something that just fits into this occasion?

2. When first seeing a girl's engagement ring, just what should one say? We girls in the office have differed on this. E. C. T.

TO "wish happiness" to the bride is just the expression to use. It is proper to "congratulate" the groom, and it isn't supposed to be correct to "congratulate" the bride. But to the bride we say, "Best wishes for your happiness," or "Every good wish for your happiness," or something of this kind.

2. "What a beautiful ring! And so becoming to your hand, Betty," and then perhaps something even more definite—something about the unusualness or the exceptional beauty of the setting or the design of the setting, or the beauty and radiance of the stone. Or, if the stone isn't a diamond (if, for instance, it is a ruby or an emerald or the girl's birthstone or any other gem, as so many girls nowadays choose to have instead of the conventional diamond) congratulate her on her original choice. Anything—and especially something definite you say will please and delight the happy girl.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, January 3

THE stellar operations for this day have a very stimulating influence on all practical and constructive effort. In labor, industry, initiative and bold enterprise there should be much worthwhile progress. But it would be well to be on guard in making new contracts or in affixing the signature to any kind of writing or document. There is hint of fraud, duplicity or misrepresentation. These new undertakings may enforce travel or change of environment.

Those whose birthday it is are under excellent prospects for a successful and constructive year in many lines of endeavor, but there is loophole for fraud or misrepresentation unless extreme caution be observed, especially in signing papers.

A child born on this day may be industrious, ingenious and enterprising, but he may need much instruction in the matter of integrity and honor, perhaps being prone to gain its ends by expediency rather than principle.

BASKETBALL BY BUCS IS TABOO.

BASKETBALL is a great game, either to play or to watch, officials of the Pittsburgh baseball club admit, and they have no fault to find with it as a sport in itself, but in their opinion it is inadvisable for a baseball player to participate in the floor pastime during the winter when they think he ought to be storing up new energy for the diamond season to follow.

Harry Riconda.

For that reason the Pirate bosses are remaining firm in their stand against the playing of basketball by members of the Buccaneer crew. Not only did they instruct Catcher Ralston Hemsley, now employed in Pittsburgh, to abandon his plan to play for a local five during the winter, but they sent similar orders to Harry Riconda, the infielder obtained from the Robins with Pitcher Jess Petty in exchange for Shortstop Glenn Wright. Riconda's services may not be essential to the success of the Corsairs next season, but the management is not going to run any risk of his baseball ability being affected in any way by basketball strain or injuries, so as soon as it was learned that Riconda intended to take part in the floor sport as a member of a Brooklyn team again this season President Barney Dreyfuss notified him that he would be serving the best baseball interest of himself and the Pittsburgh club by refraining from doing so.

NO word has since been received from the new infielder, but there is no doubt that he will remain out of basketball, as he would render himself liable to fine or suspension in baseball if he were to proceed contrary to instructions. The major league regulations provide that no player may take part in any other athletic sport during baseball's off-season without the written consent of the president of the club holding title to his services.

The first opposition of President Dreyfuss to the playing of basketball by members of the Pirates developed 20 years ago, when Jimmy Kane, after a tryout at first base for the Buccaneers in 1908, was so severely injured in a Central League basketball game that he almost lost the sight of his right eye.

SEVERAL years ago the local management considered it advisable to stop the basketball activities of Rabbit Maranville and later Kiki Cuyler also was instructed to remain out of the game.

It is the belief of the local officials that, in addition to keeping a baseball player ground down too finely during the winter and thus leading to staleness, basketball involves a strain on the legs that may shorten the career of a diamond performer.

Paulino Uzcudun.

CON O'KELLY, the latest heavyweight fistic importation from Ireland, impressed spectators at his recent fight with Jimmy Maloney as being a battler capable of absorbing punishment in surprisingly large quantities, but Jimmy Dougherty, manager of George Godfrey, declares that the distinction of being the gamest and most durable heavy in the ring today really belongs to Paulino Uzcudun. "The only way to stop this Uzcudun would be to kill him," said Dougherty. "I saw what Godfrey did to him out there in the West, and I'm here to tell you that there isn't another heavyweight in the world who could have taken what Paulino took and continue to stand up.

"I AM not exaggerating things for the purpose of boosting my fighter when I say that I am nervous in Godfrey's corner during every one of his fights through fear that he will hit his opponent over the heart or on the chin so hard as to kill him. But out there, after Godfrey had socked Uzcudun everywhere with everything that he had, I was afraid that George wouldn't hit him on the button. You have only to look at Paulino in action to realize that no man is ever going to hurt him seriously with a pair of fists.

"Well, Godfrey pounded this Basque harder than he ever pounded any man before, which is saying something. And then, in the seventh round, when, by all that was right and proper, he should have been weakening under the lacing he was taking, Uzcudun lashed into George with as much strength as he had when he first stepped through the ropes. Believe me, he is one tough man, and he cares no more for a crash on the jaw than I do for the bite of a gnat."

THE formal opening of the Keystone Athletic Club yesterday found a well-known Pittsburgh sports figure of the past returning to this city in the role of a coach. He is James R. Taylor, who will be swimming coach at the new organization.

Coach Taylor is a brother of John T. Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U. More than 25 years ago, the Taylor brothers ranked with the best amateur swimmers in this or any other part of the country, in fancy swimming and diving. Jim earned the reputation of being the most graceful water performer in the district. For several years the Keystone aquatic tutor has been coach at the Columbus (O.) Athletic Club.

A TRIBUTE to the class of baseball played in the Middle-Atlantic League and to the caliber of some of the athletes in that organization is contained in the fact that one of the Middle-Atlantic's young player has just been adjudged worthy of a berth in the American Association. It's a big jump to Class AA, but Outfielder George Durning, of the Scottdale club, has succeeded in making it, his release having just been purchased from Scottdale by the Columbus club. Durning, whose home is in Philadelphia, is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, 24 years old, and has been in organized ball only two seasons. He is fast and a hard hitter, and turned in a batting average of .324 for Scottdale last year.

Jimmy Wilson.

YOU never can tell from a baseball player's batting average in the early part of the season how he is going to finish. The man who starts out like the oft-mentioned house afire may be a bust before the campaign ends, while one who begins in unimpressive style may wind up brilliantly.

In this connection, attention is called by Sam Murphy to the striking difference between the cases of Catcher Jimmy Wilson and Outfielder Lance Richbourg in the 1928 season. Wilson began with the Phils last year, and by reason of a consistent .300 average was rated one of the most dependable hitters in the big show. But when he was shifted to the Cardinals he flopped in half a season to .264.

RICHBOURG made just the opposite kind of record. He was ill when he joined the Braves in the spring, was unable to appear in the first six games of the regular season, and when he did break into the lineup he could acromplish little.

But he had a fighting heart, if nothing else, and that carried him through, for he kept on plugging until he overcame all handicaps and disadvantages. When his team blew up and things began to go poorly for it, Richbourg carried on. He never showed a sign of letting down. The result was that he batted .336 for the year, made 18 more hits than Rogers Hornsby, and was one of the only four players in the National League who reached or passed the .200 mark in base blows, the others being Paul and Lloyd Waner and Freddie

O'Dowd Booked For Pair of Battles

Midget Mike O'Dowd, the bantamweight of Louisville, who defeated Jackie Rodgers at Motor Square Garden yesterday afternoon, is matched with Billy Evans, Negro, of Toledo, at Fort Wayne, Ind., January 11, and with Johnny Datto, the Filipino, at Cincinnati, January 19, according to his manager, Charley Jones, formerly of McKeesport and now of Columbus.

Jones, who has spent much time visiting old friends in the Pittsburgh district during the last two days, said he would be glad to bring O'Dowd here for a bout with Andy Martin, of Boston, or any other good bantamweight or featherweight after these engagements are taken care of.

Drexel Biddle, Jr., Ace Hudkins, pictured above, with DeVos as the joker, assured himself the position of the leading contender for Mickey Walker's middleweight title and also will be matched with Joe Dundee for a bout for the welterweight crown. He quit the welterweight division in disgust when Dundee refused to listen to his previous challenge. In a bout with Walker in Chicago, last summer, he lost a disputed decision after a hard fight. Now he's sitting on the top of the heap in two classes.

NELS STEWART IS HERO WITH THREE GOALS

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Big, boyish-faced Nels Stewart, leading scorer of the National League and a perennial pain in Pittsburgh's hockey neck, unloaded a liberal supply of his best brand of gloom at Duquesne Garden last night as he slammed home three goals and chaperoned the Montreal Maroons to a 4-2 triumph over Benny Leonard's Pirates.

In addition to enabling the Bucs to start the new year wrong, the defeat dropped the local skaters from third to fourth place in the American group race, Boston hanging up a triumph and forging ahead of the locals.

Stewart, playing to the accompaniment of a strong and never-ending chorus of boos, hoots and hisses, didn't waste any time in starting the gloom dispensing. Less than four minutes after the opening face-off, he took a neat pass from Mooley Smith at the goal mouth and tallied his first goal on a hot drive that Miller, in the Pirate cage, never had a chance to deflect.

TECH COPS WEIRD GAME

By Howard Harpster

All-America quarterback of Carnegie Tech and Captain of Victorious all-East team.

(Written Exclusively for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.)

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 2.—Before a holiday crowd of more than 75,000 people, which jammed its way into every available space in the beautiful Rose Bowl of Pasadena, the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech conquered California, pride of the Pacific coast, by the close score of 8 to 7, in one of the most colorful, yet weird football games I ever hope to witness.

The setting for the game was perfect. The Rose Bowl, which is situated at the foot of the beautiful snow-capped mountains of Southern California, was overflowing with color, excitement and enthusiasm. Many of Hollywood's most famous movie stars were among the spectators. I say the game was weird, because of the many unusual things which happened, things which I thought could only happen in books. Plays which even the most imaginative fiction writers would hardly dare describe, were performed in yesterday's game.

Howard Harpster

RIEGELS PULLS BONER

For instance, there was Riegels, of California, captain-elect of next year's team and a great center, who picked up a loose ball and after starting toward Georgia's goal, became confused in directions and ran 75 yards in the wrong direction before he realized his mistake. As he crossed his own goal he realized his error and he tried to run the ball back on to the field. He was tackled on the one-foot line.

And on the next play Georgia blocked a kick, scoring the safety which proved to be the winning points of the game.

In the third period, a California man was about to receive a pass for a sure touchdown, when he slipped and fell down and missed the ball. And who would have thought that after Georgia had been held on the one-yard line for two downs that she would score from midfield in two plays the next time she got the ball?

The game was full of unusual plays, and the crowd was kept on edge wondering what next to expect.

I sat in the radio box during the game with Lloyd Yoder, my former captain at Carnegie and helped Mr.

RICKARD ILL; MAY POSTPONE BIG BATTLE

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—(INS.)—The Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling heavyweight elimination fight scheduled to be held at Miami Beach, Fla., on February 27, may have to be postponed because of the illness of Promoter Tex Rickard, according to Col. John S. Hammond, who is acting as manager of Madison Square Garden here in the absence of the promoter.

CONDITION GOOD, REPORT

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 2.—(AP.)—George L. (Tex) Rickard, president of Madison Square Garden, New York, and prize fight promoter, was operated on for appendicitis here last night. His condition was reported as good after the operation.

Rickard became ill at his home yesterday morning and believed he had indigestion. When the pain became acute he summoned a physician, who diagnosed the case as appendicitis. He was taken to the Allison Hospital at 7:30 o'clock and operated on at once.

The promoter's illness prevented him from attending the opening of the Miami Beach Kennel Club's new greyhound racing plant, of which he is principal owner.

Miss Lackie Quits Amateur Ranks

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Miss Ethel Lackie, veteran of the nation's ranking girl swimmers, is retiring from amateur competition. Following the example of Johnnie Weissmuller, Miss Lackie has decided to forsake the amateurs for more lucrative occupations. Together with Weissmuller, Miss Lackie, who holds six world's sprint swimming records, will make her final amateur appearance tomorrow night at the Cook County Interscholastic swimming championship meet.

Concannon Plays Series Here Today

Joe Concannon, pocket billiard player and instructor, will demonstrate to local fans the fundamentals and fine points of billiards in a series of exhibitions at the Ellis recreation parlors today. He is sent here by the National Billiard Association of America and is playing under the direction of C. A. Storer, director of players for that association.

MIKE O'DOWD TOO GOOD FOR RODGERS

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

THE right fellow to send against Andy Martin, of Boston, in a bout at Motor Square Garden, where Andy recently whipped Johnny Datto, the Filipino, to a frazzle, bobbed up yesterday in the same ring, in the person of Midget Mike O'Dowd, of Louisville, who won handily over little Jackie Rodgers, Negro bantamweight of the North Side, in the 10-round feature bout of a New Year's Day matinee before a fair-sized crowd.

Mike O'Dowd.

All that remains now to bring the pair together is an open date or another club to stage the bout in another spot, for it develops that yesterday's show may be the last in the East End arena until around April 1. An amateur show is listed there next week and the following weeks will be given over to getting ready for and staging automobile, food and airplane shows and another amateur show. Unless some way can be found to squeeze in a professional show, the "natural" that has been cooked up in the Garden will have to go elsewhere or fall through entirely.

Rodgers, who thrilled the fans with his great exhibition against Dan Billick, of Duquesne, at the Garden Christmas afternoon, whereby he landed the main event of yesterday, was in the swim over his head in tackling the classy O'Dowd, who is managed by Charley Jones, formerly of McKeesport, and has met many of the stars in the bantamweight and featherweight classes, including Eddie Shea and Santiago Zorilla, and the local lad did well to finish the battle on his feet. He was down for a count of nine in the third round and thereafter boxed cagily, keeping on the move and taking few chances. In the face of O'Dowd's sporadic slugging bees, Rodgers displayed splendid gameness and lost none of his admirers in defeat.

O'Dowd enjoyed an edge of four and one-half pounds in weight and his greater margin in experience was apparent throughout. Rodgers appeared a bit timid at the start. He did not rush Mike and rake him with blows, as he did Billick, but kept circling about and tapping feebly with his left. O'Dowd dogged him around the ring, boxing deliberately and trying to get Jackie to either stand still or mix. It was a tame session for action, with Rodgers flitting about like a little black ghost, if there is such a thing.

The first half of the second round was a repetition of the first session. Then Rodgers took the initiative with some leading. O'Dowd kept following him about, but made no real attempt to fight and Rodgers had a slight shade in the round, his only round, incidentally, of the fight.

The first fireworks developed in the third round O'Dowd came out fighting and went to work on Rodgers' body with both fists. Jackie complained that one of the blows was low and O'Dowd was warned. Mike's attack simmered down and Rodgers gained confidence and for the first time began to cut loose with something like his customary stuff. Instead of flitting about he came piling in, throwing lefts and rights. This, apparently, was just what O'Dowd had been waiting for, for he welcomed the onslaught and belted back with both fists and soon had Rodgers tottering and falling back, in surprise. A climaxing smash sent Jackie down in a neutral corner, with the crowd in an uproar. Sitting bolt upright, with his legs spread out before him, Rodgers calmly took the limit count of nine and then

WRONG-WAY GRID RUNNER "SMARTEST MAN ON TEAM"

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 2.—Roy Riegels, University of California center and captain-elect, who became badly mixed up during the Georgia Tech-California game yesterday that he ran 75 yards toward his own goal before one of his own teammates brought him down, today was styled "the smartest man on the team," by Coach Price, mentor of the defeated eleven.

"It might happen to anyone," Price declared.

California lost, 8-7, a two-point score which resulted directly from Riegels' run deciding the issue.

Here is the prison d'etre, or something, for the famous backward dash, as told by Riegels:

"I suppose I'll pay a stiff penalty for my 'boner' and I feel that it ruined my team's chances.

"I was running toward the side lines, and when I picked up the ball I started to turn toward Tech's goal. Somebody shoved me and I bounced right into a tackler. In pivoting to get away from him I completely lost my bearings.

"Two or three of my teammates were around giving me interference. I was trying to squirm out of a nest of tacklers and did so and began scooting for two goal posts. I saw looming ahead of me. I wasn't out of my head and I hadn't been hit. I was spun around like a top. I guess I lost my brain in the meantime."

Riegels, by the way, returned to the game in the second half and played one of his most brilliant games.

ALABAMIANS WIN

PITT TROUNCES INDIANA; DUKES PLAY TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER.

CHIPPER CHOLLY (Lowering) HYATT provided a suitable antidote for the boys' New Year headaches at the Stadium pavilion last night as he led the University of Pittsburgh to a 27-23 victory over the University of Indiana basketeers. Chip, each fly, in his demonstration of how to play basketball, caged 12 points from the field and dropped in a foul for a high point total of 25. A great start for the new year!

Indiana showed flashes of brilliance and as great scoring streaks as did Iowa four nights ago, but met the same fate as a result of inexperience when pitted against the clever passing club. The Hoosiers are co-champions with Purdue of the Big Ten last year, were favored to win the game. The score at the half was 27-12, and the Panthers failed up to within eight points of the Panthers with a brilliant rally early in the second period. Hyatt and the boys ran on dizzy.

Doctor Carlson kept his regular lineup in the game until the last four minutes of play, indicating what might have happened to Iowa last Saturday had he followed the same plan. The Panthers handled the ball more cleanly than did Indiana, shot better later and truer and played the floor for all it was worth. Indiana was almost totally unable to work the ball in close, and the long leaves of the Hoosiers were not fast enough to count against the zip-snorting way in which Pitt was casting the old apple.

BAKER AIDS PITT

Eddie Baker, with six baskets and a splendid exhibition of floor play co-starred with Hyatt and Gyp Wunderich, with three goals each in the first half from in and around the foul line. Lew Cohen never passed better in his life. Joel Zehfuss is still peeved at me for not think so, ask the Indiana forwards.

Jim Strickland, Indiana's blonde forward blew himself to six double deckers, three in each period, and starred for the Hoosiers. McCracken, playing center where he has been shifted this season after sojourning as a forward all of last year, had four goals, made from fairly close to the hoop which is something unusual for a Western Conference player.

The game was cleanly played, 15 fouls being called on the Hoosiers and 12 on Pitt. Calvin Bolster and Frank Lane, the green shirted gentleman of the whistle from the Big Ten, gave further proof of their ability to handle a basketball game about as well as one can be handled. Only one player was eased out of the action with four personal fouls, that being Wunderich, all of Indiana, and none of these fouls were of the vicious variety.

Johnstown Junior College lost to the Pitt freshman team in the preliminary skirmish. The score was 46 to 8. The Johnstown quintet trailed by a 25-5 tally at the end of the half. The Kowalis brothers were the outstanding players. The lineup:

DUKES PLAY TONIGHT

Pittsburgh's collegiate program will be resumed tonight with Dick Davies' Dukes and the Salem College Tigers of West Virginia furnishing the action on the Bluff.

Salem won the West Virginia College Conference championship last year, if that means anything. The club is supposed to be a fast one, and from the way in which it performed in facing Tarentum last night, with Chick looking on, appears to be capable of giving the locals a hard evening.

However, the contest promises to afford the Dukes the first real competition of the year. Ohio Northern was just another ball club, and the Alumni certainly did not press the Red and Blue to any extent.

HOCKEY

and 47 seconds of the second stanza had elapsed. So registered tally number two. This second goal was something of a gift to that Roger Smith. Pirate defense man, had to beat the Maroons set for pass some. Ward, skating up to right lane, slammed a hot pass at Stewart as he touched the blue line. Smith was between Ward and Stewart at the time, and in attempting to break down the pass he slowed up the rubber just so that Nels could pounce upon it at the goal mouth. And when Stewart has possession of the puck at the goal mouth boys and girls, the goal judge need not hesitate in flashing the red light.

Just to break the monotony of the Stewart scoring parade, Hooley Smith took a hand in the proceedings less than a minute later.

Harry's goal was something of a gift. Letting a very ordinary shot out beyond the defense men, Hooley and all others present were very much surprised to see the puck go into the corner after Miller had made an apparently easy stop. As the rubber hit Joe's stick, it bounced to onto his leg and rolled down into the net. The goal will might be described as "just one of those things."

HERB DRURY SCORES

While the greens which Smith's goal had occasioned still were looking for a resting place among the rafters, Herb Drury stepped out and gave the fans the unusual treat of watching a first rate goal on home ice. Skating down with the puck, Drury passed to his mate as he reached the Maroon defense. White, well covered, passed the disc back to Herb and Herb showed his appreciation by beating Welsh, Maroons' goalie, from a difficult angle.

When only two minutes of play remained in the tumultuous second period, Stewart came to bat again and slammed a home run by registering his third and the Maroons' last goal. Stewarts goal was unusual in that it climaxed a batting bee with Miller, Robinson, in the thick of a will scrimmage, the puck finally behind the cage, suddenly pushed the disc out to the goal mouth. Both Nels and Miller took a swing at the puck, and both missed. Again they let go wild wallops at the unoffending puck. Miller missed again. Stewart didn't. It was another goal.

The Pirates' second goal, scored by Hib Milks after 15 minutes and 20 seconds of play in the third stanza, also was an unusual tally. Hib, skating up the left lane, dribbled and stick-handled his way through the Maroon defense and up to the left corner of the cage. Goalie Flat Walsh, anticipating a quick shot, fell flat in an effort to smother the disc. Flat fell so flat that he was not able to regain his feet with any degree of speed, and while he was resting on his chest Milks skated around the cage and drove the puck home from the other side.

The game, which entertained a holiday crowd of almost capacity proportions, was free of action from start to finish. The second period was back up of the willies 20 minutes of play of the season here. Five penalties were called, and the Pirates and Maroons took turns at bearing down on a shot-handed foe.

TRY NEW GOALIE

The Maroons, suffering regression in defense in the final period, but the Blues, sending four men up the ice time after time, provided plenty of action. Herb Drury was shocked out in one of the many wild scrimmages near the Maroon cage, but he was not hurt seriously and was able to skate off the ice after a few minutes of rest.

McKinnon and Dutton drew threes for the Maroons.

Bert McCaffery, Pirate defense ace who has been confined to his home in Toronto with an attack of tonsilitis, reported to Manager Cleghorn late yesterday. He was in uniform, but did not get into the game. Pilot Odie expects to have him return to the lineup tomorrow night, when the Pirates meet the Rangers in New York. The lineup:

Pirates—2.	Maroons 4.
Miller	G. Walsh
R. Smith	D. Dutton
McKinnon	D. Hicks
Frederickson	C. H. Smith
Darragh	W. Ward
Milks	W. Stewart

Pirate spares—Drury, Cotton, White, Holway and McCurry. Maroon spares—Lamb, Robinson, Siebert, Phillips. First period summary: Scoring, Stewart (Ward), 5:47. H. Smith, 4:10. Drury (White), 6:21. Stewart, Robinson, Miller). Penalties, Dutton 3, Ward, Darragh, McKinnon. Third period summary: Scoring, Milks, 15:20. Penalties, McKinnon, E. Dutton. Officials—O'Leary and Maillson.

Georgia Tech Wins Weird Game, 8-7

McNamee a hit by computing the statistics of the game. McNamee assisted by Yoder, announced the game.

And those of you who listened in will admit that he did a mighty fine job of it.

For California, Bancroft, Schmidt and Lom looked best to me, while Thomason, Lumpkins and Mizell were the stars for Georgia. The lineup:

The Georgia Tech gridmen, a Golden Tornado which rose out of the gridiron ranks of the South to win the right to represent the East, rode one of football's strangest breaks to a spectacular 8-to-7 victory over California's Golden Bears, standard bearers of the West, in the annual New Year's Day classic here yesterday.

While thousands of California followers were amazed almost to the point of belief that the ancient and honorable game of football had gone crazy, Tech's Golden Tornado, after being forced to kick out of danger, but the kick was blocked and a safety furnished Georgia Tech the winning point.

It was a team that was outbattled through virtually the greater part of the struggle, the crowd saw, but it was a team that was driven by the courage of bull dogs taking advantage of every break coming their way. The Tornadoeans were outplayed through most of the first half and in the final quarter, when the Bears, unable to stop the onrushing foe, staged a mighty rush to put across seven points.

The process of success for that attack changed on a high pedestal in Rose Bowl stadium, but was raised to greater heights by the victory of Tech. The Golden Tornadoes victory gave the South a preponderance of wins in the three games that that section has been represented in Pacific footballers have taken four wins and dead-locked in the other.

BEARS MIGHTY

In a first period replete with thrilling moments, the Bears got the Tornadoeans off to a bad start. Two successive kicks by Lom brought the ball down to the field and the Bears held in defensive advantage almost throughout. The Westerners reached Tech's 21-yard line, a blow from which the Dixie warriors did not recover until late in the quarter. But the Tornado lifted itself to swing its California-stopping punch in the form of a 37-yard run by Mizell to Lom.

The second quarter was the thrilling of the first and even more heart thrilling. It saw the Southerners score, safety, one of the greatest plays in gridiron history, saw California drive through the 31-yard line, saw the Southerners put under way a counter-attack that carried them to the Bear 14-yard marker, and saw California's rise to crescendo to a 65-yard dash by Lom across the opposition's goal, only to be blasted by a penalty.

ERROR COSTLY

A brace of heaves with Lom hurling, and plunges by Barr and Schmidt, plunked the Bears down on their foes' 25-yard line, but they lost the ball on downs when a pass, Lom to Barr, failed. Then came the boner that gave the Southerners first blood. Stumpy Thomason, Tech halfback, fumbled on the first play, Riegels recovering. The sturdy center started for the Tech goal, a chill crept into the hearts of California supporters when he reversed suddenly to run 75 yards to within a foot of his own goal line. As he was about to step over the line, a teammate, Lom, caught up with him and pulled him back.

A groan echoed through the large stadium as the two teams lined up. The fighters of Dixie determined to block the kick. Riegels passed to Lom in back of his goal line, but the kick was blocked and Barr fell on the ball, giving Tech a safety.

Riegels, one of the outstanding centers on the coast during the 1928 season, was replaced, and as he walked to the players' bench was given a cheer.

The Golden Tornado left a routed Bear aggregation as it gathered force for another swoop at the West's bulwarks. Picking up the oval on its own 45-yard line following an exchange of punts, the Southern Tempest stormed to California's 14-yard marker with a 22-yard pass, Dunlap to Jones, featuring.

The Dixie Whirlwind twisted and tore at the Bears in the third period, crushing California hopes by sweeping across the West's goal line. Taking the ball on California's 10-yard line after an exchange of fumbles, Tech started on a drive that all but ended in a score.

Mizell hit center for four yards and Lumpkin three more to put the ball on the three-yard line. Lumpkin was held for no gain on the next play, however, and Lom punting for California, sent the ball out of danger with a long kick to midfield. It was but a brief respite, however, for the next play started the Tornado aggregation. Dunlap packed the ball to California's 4-yard line. Mizell slashed around left end for 30 and the Southerners were on their own 34-yard marker when Lom cutting through a hole twisted across the line for a touchdown. His kick for the extra point was low and wide.

BEARS GAIN MOST YARDAGE

In yardage gains the period to cross part of the stigma of his earlier mistakes. He blocked one of Mizell's kicks and recovered the oval in the Tech 28-yard line, but his efforts went for naught as two attempts to penetrate the Southern line resulted in material losses.

California had the edge in yards gained from scrimmage, making 165 yards to Georgia Tech's 164. California made 13 first downs while the Southerners made six. Of the 15 passes tried, the Bears completed seven, Georgia passed three times and completed once.

California gained 112 yards by aerial plays; Tech gained 35. The Bears punted eight times for a total of 367 yards, averaging 45 yards per kick. Their opponents punted three times for a total of 132 yards, averaging 38 yards to the kick.

Mizell proved the best ground gainer of the game, making 106 yards in 11 plays. Lom, the outstanding ball carrier for California, took the ball 11 times for a total gain of 121 yards, an average of 2.3 yards to the play.

The second quarter was the thrilling of the first and even more heart thrilling. It saw the Southerners score, safety, one of the greatest plays in gridiron history, saw California drive through the 31-yard line, saw the Southerners put under way a counter-attack that carried them to the Bear 14-yard marker, and saw California's rise to crescendo to a 65-yard dash by Lom across the opposition's goal, only to be blasted by a penalty.

Long's Sport Comment

Lindstrom. Now seven other clubs in the league would like to get him, whereas Wilson's value has dropped.

THOUGH he managed to capture the decision over Rene DeVos in their New York bout last week, Ace Hudkins did not convince the onlookers that he is anything in the matter of a world beater in his present form or that he will be a safe bet to defeat Mickey Walker for the middleweight championship if given a title match. Many of the spectators, on the contrary, declare that Hudkins won not through any remarkable ability of his own but merely because his opponent fought a dumb fight and could have copped the verdict easily if he had used his head, and incidentally, his feet. The Belgian appeared not to know enough to keep stepping, to keep free of the Wildcat's rushes.

Ace Hudkins.

ONE of those who could see little evidence of class on either side during the fight was Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion. "What an exhibition!" Corbett is quoted. "What has become of the fine art of boxing? Why, these fellows today seem not to care anything about even the elemental points of the art.

"I could think of a dozen middleweights of my time who wouldn't have been bothered by Hudkins' stuff at all. They'd have stepped about and made Ace plunge through the ropes with that rushing and Mauling style of his. Certainly, they'd never have let him rest his head on their chests and pound them about as he did DeVos. Those two fellows reminded me of the pictures of the Frank Gotch-George Hackenschmidt wrestling match years ago. They stood head on like a couple of bulls with locked horns, pawing and pushing about for a hold. That's what I was reminded of watching DeVos and Hudkins. And they call it boxing nowadays. Ye gods!"

O'DOWD WINS

scrambled to his feet to be met by another whirlwind attack that forced him to hang on. Finding he could take these punches, he began to fight back and was out of danger at the bell.

However, Rodgers knew he was outclassed by his foe, and he used fine generalship over the remainder of the route, going back to his maneuvering tactics of the first two rounds, with the result that O'Dowd won as he pleased to the final bell and yet was unable to build up occasionally, O'Dowd caught Jacobs and belabored him about the body and once sent him for his knees with a head butt in the ninth round. But little foul speedy and elusive in the last two rounds, he drove Rodgers before him at a terrific pace and nailed him with many shots but Jackie stood up manfully under the punishment he could not evade. Both received an ovation from the fans at the final bell.

Rodgers introduced a wrinkle of showmanship into the battle in the late stages, when he twice did a few dance steps prior to rushing in close. The trick was much along the lines of the hopping that Memphis Pal Moore employed, but it failed to impress, let alone illuster, O'Dowd.

Tom Maloe, of Soho, 146 pounds, got the referee's decision over Phil Scollo, of McKeesport, 147, in a hard-fought, but uninteresting eight-round slugging semi-final. Judge Jack Simcox called the bout a draw and Judge Frank Brown voted for Scollo but Referee Joe Keally voted for Maloe. Scollo would not lead until the last round holding back to counter and then being wild with swings. Maloe tired midway in the battle and Scollo failed to take advantage of his opportunity when this break in his favor occurred. The fans several times booed Tom for using his elbows and shoulders.

Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, 124 pounds, had a six-round workout at the expense of Johnny Michaels, of Braddock, 128, in the main preliminary. Michaels took a beating from the clever Dunn but never had a chance, proving little more than a willing punching bag.

Tommy Ward, of the South Side, 142 pounds, accepting the bout on short notice, board well for a couple of rounds with the more experienced Jackie Murray, local N'gro, scaling 141 pounds, in the second four-round bout, but weakened under Murray's assault and was taking a lacing at the finish.

Mac Zitt, Luke Carnes's fight heavyweight, tipping the beam at 180 pounds, defeated Charles Saladi, of Lawrenceville, 189½, in the four-round opener, a rough mix.

Jack Henderson refereed the main bout and alternated with Joe Keally in the others.

WANER BROTHERS TURN DOWN FAT STAGE OFFERS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

LLOYD WANER, premier outfielder of the Pirates and one of the best little ball hawks that has come into baseball in the past 20 years, is spending a holiday in Pittsburgh. Brother Lloyd, with Paul, frowned upon a theatrical contract offered them at the conclusion of the season with the idea of conserving their energies for the diamond game. The two stars went into the woods on a hunting tour as a means of relaxation.

It was rather hard for Paul and Lloyd to turn aside from the big money offered them for another one of those extended tours, but their love for the sport of the ball and bat eventually won the day. It isn't every athlete who would intentionally walk away from upwards of $10,000 for a couple of months' work. Such a stake would do much in the way of farmer relief, yet these two country boys were able to resist the golden dish.

TIRED OF STAGE

The two brothers succumbed to the lure of the stage at the end of the 1927 season. Each made a small fortune, and the thing was a sort of buggy ride, but the limpid of the footlights wore off quickly, especially for the younger brother.

When the theatrical agents approached the brothers last fall they are supposed to have found Paul in a somewhat indifferent mood, but there was nothing negative about Lloyd. He let it be known that he did not want any more performances.

"I want to get out on my father's farm just as soon as I can," he told the agents. Persuasive talk that followed didn't have much effect on Lloyd.

During the last race the youngster fell off a bit in his batting, yet, withal, he finished with a mark of .335, and his fielding again made him stand out as a ball hawk "from away back." But Lloyd was ailing with one thing and another, especially with his stomach. He longed for the final curtain so that he could relax.

BIG SIX TEAM WINS, 14-6

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Blue Howell, of Nebraska, and Bob Mehrle, of Missouri, plunged and side-stepped in phantom fashion yesterday to give a team of Big Six gridiron stars a 14-to-6 victory over a hand-picked Southwest Conference eleven before 10,000 spectators. The game was staged for the benefit of a crippled children's hospital.

Burgess, of Texas A. & M., and Howell came to blows just before the game ended and the crowd swarmed on the field, Burgess was ejected. When the final gun sounded Baccus, of Southern Methodist University, was on top of Howell choking him and police had to clear the field. The lineup:

DUNLEVY BEATEN BY HEIDELBERG IN GOOD GAME

By TOM BIRKS.

TAKING full advantage of shooting possibilities, the Heidelberg Soccer Club again entered the final round of the Western Pennsylvania senior championship, qualifying to meet McKeesport National Tube, when it swamped the Dunlevy team by a 6-goals-to-1 score at the Pitt Stadium yesterday afternoon.

The battle brought out the shooting ability of Buff Donnelli, Duquesne University grid captain, who smashed the ball into the net three times. Buff's shooting, however, was made possible by Johnny McCosky, the young inside left and captain of the Heidelberg club, who made great openings by brilliant footwork for the Donnelli brothers, and the two Heidelberg men took full advantage of these openings, as the score would indicate.

The score does not indicate the trend of the game, Dunlevy had much more of the play than the score would show and though weakened by the absence of Pat Murphy, Grilli and Crompton from the regular lineup, managed to give Heidelberg many anxious moments. In fact, had the forward line taken advantage of the chances given it by the defense, the score would have been different. The lineup:

Heidelberg—6.	Dunlevy—1.
S. Fagan	G. Benick
Villani	R.B. Barraes
J. Fagan	L.B. Jenstelli
Mangus	R.H. Dolphi
Jones	C.H. Sickles
Genzel	L.H. Craft
Kuntz	O.R. Craft
A. Donnelli	I.R. Benick
F. Donnelli	C. Grandi
McCosky	I.L. Ross
Chappell	O.L. Bezaki

Goal scores—A. Donnelli 3, F. Donnelli, McCosky, Brogel. Score at half time—2-0 Heidelberg. Time of halves—Two 45 minutes. Referee—Limaden.

HE COUGHED SO BAD PEOPLE STARED-HAD TO LEAVE "MOVIE"

His Cough Worried Family. Ordinary Remedies Did Him No Good.

COUGHED WORSE NIGHTS OR WHEN INDOORS

"My husband months ago saw a doctor and was told there was nothing wrong with him, but that cough clung to him night and day. He would come from outdoors into a theatre or the house and soon he'd be hacking and barking terrible. Right in the midst of a movie he'd have to leave his seat. Neighbors commented on it.

He even took Cod Liver Oil although he hated it, and quit before it did him any good. I finally told our doctor and he said: "Men are all alike and you can't blame them much, so go get him a big bottle of Linonine, it is a nice tasting Flaxseed, Eucalyptus, etc., mixture, far better than Cod Liver Oil and works quick.

RESULTS WONDERFUL

"He liked 'Linonine' so well he took it before meals until the whole bottle was gone. It not only stopped his cough—it built him up fine. I never saw medicine work such wonders before. Anybody with a cold or cough should use Linonine—and children love it."

A cough is dangerous this time of year. Well stocked druggists have Linonine, 50c or $1.00 sizes—or send dollar bill for large bottle parcels post. Kerr Chemical Co., Brentwood, Md.

PRESSED STEEL CAR ORDERS INCREASE

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Pressed Steel Car Company is starting the year with a good volume of new business on its books. In the past two months orders have been received for about 4,500 freight cars.

The largest order was closed only a week ago for 1,200 cars for the Louisville and Nashville. These will require 20,000 tons of rolled steel, which will be supplied by Pittsburgh district mills.

OTHER contracts recently placed with Pressed Steel have included 1,000 automobile cars for the Canadian National Railways and 1,000 refrigerator cars for American Refrigerator Transport.

The total of car orders placed with all makers during the past month has been for about 11,000 cars, so that Pressed Steel has taken a good share of the new business.

RECENT buying of railroad equipment has been the best for many months, although it is still far from a boom in demand. About one-fourth of all the car orders placed in 1928 have been announced in the past two months.

The extent of the depression in railroad buying can be realized by the fact that the Pressed Steel Car Company alone, with a capacity of about 45,000 cars a year, could have supplied the 1928 requirements for the entire country.

THE four-year slump in demand for new cars has resulted from increased efficiency of railroad operation. By speeding up shipments they have reduced the number of cars needed to carry on their business. They are maintaining their rolling stock better, so that its life is longer. Many roads are doing a greater amount of work in their own shops.

The railroad equipment industry believes that the roads have been running on their newly-created surplus of cars for almost the maximum period of time. Soon they will have to reenter the market and this will mean better times for the car builders.

PRESSED STEEL CAR in common with other equipment makers had a poor year in 1928. The new orders booked in the final two months came too late to help the year's earnings. They will, however, start 1929 with a volume that means better earnings if it can be continued through the rest of the year.

The company showed net profit of $1,706,862, or $6.65 a share, on the common stock in 1928. For the following three years revenues declined. In 1924 net was $1,179,356, or $2.44 a share. In 1925 net dropped to $939,049, or 51 cents a share. A deficit of $620,803 was reported for 1926.

Some improvement was shown in 1927, when $539,213 was earned. This was equivalent to $1.59 a share on the $15,000,000 of 7 per cent cumulative preferred.

IT IS unlikely that preferred dividends were earned in 1928. This will make the third successive year during which net profit was less than dividend requirements. The financial position is strong, however, so that if sales continue at the present rate the dividend will be continued.

No new developments have taken place in the attempts to rearrange the capital structure. Some of the owners of the 5 per cent gold bonds due in 1933 have taken advantage of the new opportunity given to exchange their holdings for 5 per cent convertible debentures due in 1943. The bondholders receive three shares of no par common stock with each $1,000 bond exchanged.

Some Big Developments 1929 Is Likely to Bring.

—By B. C. FORBES—

WHAT are some of the developments 1929 may bring? Every forward-looking business man necessarily chances to a certain amount of guessing. Here are a few guesses.

GREAT pressure probably will be concentrated upon this Congress to modify anti-trust laws. It is already generally conceded that the stock boards carry restrictions which do more harm than good under present-day conditions.

PROGRESS, nothless, is to be made toward bringing a national movement to bring about a co-ordinated effort by American industry to level out the peaks and valleys of employment. Intelligent industrial leaders are becoming more alive to their responsibility for insuring, to the maximum of their capabilities, steady employment for their workfolks. President Hoover, it is understood, will lend his active aid toward a solution of this infinitely important problem.

LEGISLATION governing the Interstate Commerce Commission may be anticipated, instancing the Interstate Commerce Commission to take a less destructive attitude towards proposed consolidations, looking to the carrying out of the plan endorsed by Congress to weld the nation's many railroads into a score of more well-rounded systems.

Not one merger of the first magnitude has yet been sanctioned by the commission. Instead, that body has persistently raised objections to most major realignments submitted to it for approval. It has been clearly established that either the law or the commission's attitude should be changed.

THE year will bring many far-reaching mergers. The outlook, indeed, is that developments of unprecedented magnitude will be witnessed, affecting banking, manufacturing, mining, transportation, distributing, merchandising, foreign trade, amusements, security distribution, publishing, aviation, motordom, oil, lumber, chain stores, department stores, and even agriculture.

APPARENTLY Europe seriously plans to evolve a scheme to capitalize Germany's reparation obligations, with a view, among other things, to having American investors absorb a very large proportion of the securities thus created. Incidentally, it is doubtful whether the American people will respond readily if such overtures are made.

MARKED progress unquestionably will be made in popularizing flying, and it may be that before the close of the year, mass production of airplanes will be ushered in. If our inventors and scientists only bring forth something to increase greatly the factor of safety, flying for pleasure would receive a vigorous impetus, because more and more Americans are becoming air-minded. New airports will be created on a scale not approached heretofore.

THE demoralization which has too long prevailed in the oil industry should be well under control before another year arrives, provided abnormal new discoveries are not made. Co-operation in industry, including the widespread growth of association activities, is likely to be a feature of 1929.

GROUP banking, already stirring, is sure to become very active. Some of the most powerful banking interests in the country will figure in this method of reaching out for wider control of banking operations.

THE formation of so-called investment trusts, on the other hand, may receive a check, as they threaten to push fact already have been—overdone by more or less irresponsible people. This species of structure has not yet been subjected to the test of stress.

THE unparalleled wave of speculation in stocks, involving the borrowing of billions of dollars by stock brokers, will bring, it is sincerely evident, attempts at Washington to create attempts which will doubtless involve the existing Federal Reserve Bank system. Even though there is little likelihood that Congress will pass any foolish legislation the agitation may become potent enough to create apprehension, with consequences unfavorable to the security markets and prompts to business.

WHAT 1929 will bring stock marketwise is on the knees of the gods. One man's guess is as good as another's. Mine happens to be that, whatever further success the bulls may have in the early part of the year, they will reach the end of their tether long before the end of the year.

BUGS BAER Says

YOUNG lady writes in from Brooklyn, the city of broken hearts and busted fenders, to say that Leap Year is over.

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

She also states that she made seven leaps and failed to land in the firemen's net.

The next Leap Year will be 1932 and she wants to know what we are going to do about it.

If she failed to get a place on the Olympic team then she must have been leaping in the wrong direction.

As a matter of fact we forgot that 1928 was the magic year. We failed to notice that the ladies were leaping any more than usual.

There is nothing we can do about it. Except to spend the next four years in getting a good start for 1932.

But why wait that long?

Do you think that Peggy Hopkins is going to allow the Canadian Northwest Police to get its man without competition?

Did Cleopatra ever declare a moratorium? She mailed Caesar, she potted Caesar Junior, and she tagged Marc Antony.

Didn't the Queen of Sheba take a boatride for Solomon? She paddled up the Nile and put on the first Egyptian Follies.

There is a lady in New Jersey who has had 15 husbands.

Some of them were her own.

How about the famous Ninon of Paris? She was still getting married at the age of 92.

She had so many husbands that she had to make some of them corporals and some of them sergeants to keep the rest of her army in step.

These ladies didn't wait for Leap Year. Why should a Brooklyn girl?

This is not a column of lonely hearts and halitosis. But we advise the young person to bob her hair, shine her shoes, pin back her ears and step out and nail one of those eligible young bachelors who spend their time loafing around Long Island Station.

If she waits until 1932 she will be four years older. And the vital statistics of the Life Extension Bureau show that in that time she should not only have three or four children, but also the same number of husbands.

One of the inspiring things about this business is the unselfish spirit of people you haven't even met socially. It revives faith in human nature to open the mail and discover a picture like the above. Consider the man's effort. He hunts up a photographer and, out of his own pocket, pays for a picture and sends it along. He co-operates. He has the one for all and all for one instinct. Of course it would have been just as funny if he hadn't put his hat on sideways.

Session of Legislature Facing Important Matters

Harrisburg takes on added importance as our state capital through the organization of the General Assembly, effected, as the law provides, on the first Tuesday of January, which, for the biennial session of 1929, happened to fall on New Year's Day. The initial meeting of the Legislature is of interest only as an example of the operation of political machinery. The real work in behalf of the state comes after an interim in which the legislators, having been assigned the plums and lemons of the committee appointments according to their status politically, contemplate the camps with which they are allied and, incidentally, prepare for the duties of law-making. The Legislature, of course, has to be organized, and our political boys appear to like to make the process a game.

After they get through playing they settle down to serious work. And, for this session, there is plenty of it that is serious. Part of it will be the matter of taking care of improvements and state aid to institutions, highways and forests, contemplated under amendments to the state constitution which were rejected by the voters, induced, no doubt, by suggestion of opponents that these matters could be provided through current revenues.

There also will be the legislation to put into effect the constitutional amendment permitting the use of voting machines in such counties as wish to employ that device to insure efficiency and honesty in the conduct of elections. This is one of the most important laws with which the General Assembly will have to deal. It is hoped that the voice of the citizens, as reflected in the vote on the amendment, will be the guide on Capitol Hill.

Next in importance to the vote machine law, from a Pittsburgh standpoint, will be the metropolitan charter bill, under which the entire county will be consolidated as a single city, in which a large amount of autonomy will be reserved to the separate civil units. Naturally, from the nature of the subject, it is one in which all of the wisdom of the Legislature will be required. This will not be an immediate matter, since the Metropolitan Plan Commission here still is receiving suggestions as to what the charter should embrace, and will not frame a tentative instrument until that work is completed.

Besides matters initiating with the legislators will be suggestions from Gov. Fisher, contained in his annual message, read Tuesday. This discloses that the state is in excellent condition financially, with a balance in the state treasury of at least $25,000,000, which will be augmented by appropriations made at the last session but not used. This prompts the governor to state: "We may, therefore look at the coming two years with confidence in our ability to pay as we go." In this connection the governor recommends that legislation for the operation of a department of revenue, with a secretary, already authorized, be enacted. It is expected to further efficient business management in state affairs.

A problem, the governor states, has developed in that state hospitals "have come to be practically community institutions," in which there has grown local interest and pride and a desire to locally control policies and management. The executive suggests that this authority be given by turning the properties over to local corporations, upon request, to be continued to be operated and maintained by the state.

Matters which the governor comments on include the decrease of tuberculosis, with the necessity of expanding the means of caring for the tubercular, the introduction of traveling laboratories and health cars in rural communities, the evil of stream pollution, efforts toward flood control, progress o. reforestation, expansion of highways, for the extension of which in townships he says there should be "reasonable appropriation" for state aid roads, aviation, agriculture, education and industrial conditions, which, the governor states, are satisfactory.

In conclusion, he points out the need of enabling legislation on the voting machine amendment and the revision of election laws. "I have no doubt," the paragraph states, "that you are sensible of your duty in this respect, and I cannot refrain from turning aside to remark that the greatest need to insure honest elections is the continuance of the aroused public conscience and interest which now seems to be stirring the people. If they want integrity at the polls, the necessary law and enforcement machinery can readily be found to carry into effect their will."

Sewickley Y.M.C.A. Right On Sunday Recreation

A genuinely tolerant view of Sunday sports and amusements has appeared in what might be thought to be an unexpected quarter—the Sewickley Y. M. C. A., which, for the first time in its history, gave its members opportunity really to enjoy themselves last Sunday. Some might say this is revolutionary, but why should not the Y. M. C. A. be as responsive to the modern demand for recreation on Sunday as any other organization, even those of less spiritual purpose? Certaily there can be nothing about innocent amusement that would make it any less potent in striving to point out the Christian goal.

So the Sewickley Y. M. C. A. management is to be congratulated upon opening the way to Sunday recreation under wholesome environment. It wisely sees that young people will not be harmed by freedom in diversion. And, too, it was found that the religious meeting, which is a Sunday afternoon feature, was much better attended than it ever had been.

Slowly the progress from Blue Law rigor is made manifest. Only recently the city of Boston adopted measures to permit the playing of baseball on Sunday. Benighted Pennsylvania may do the same, if there continues to be such a show of real Christian spirit as the Sewickley Y. M. C. A. has adopted.

The Legislature now in session will see an attempt made to modernize the laws of our state in that respect. Let the people speak their will and the legislators will be sure to act favorably on Sunday sports and amusements of innocent nature. In the past they have kept the law of 1794—just think of it, 1794!—to inflict its unreasonable and discriminative force upon present day folks, because they thought the people supported that old and restrictive law. Let them know now that we do not want it any longer in its present form. Let them know we want it amended to permit reasonable recreation that will help us and will injure nobody.

Tales That Are Told

Her Last Chance

DOROTHY had been warned by her mother not to play in the road, which was very muddy. Several times Dorothy disobeyed, and had to be brought in and cleaned up.

At last, exasperated, her mother exclaimed: "Dorothy, I'll give you one more chance. If you play in the road again I shall have to put you to bed."

The child went out again, but in a short time appeared at the door, wet and bedraggled.

"Well, mother," she remarked, in a tone of cheerful resignation, "I've used up my last chance!"

Price of Science

THE landlady noticed with dismay that her new lodger's fire consumed more coal than she had been accustomed to provide for it. She mentioned the fact.

"Oh, yes," explained the ingenious young man. "You see, I always place the lump of coal on the fire in such a way that the grain is perpendicular—that is, running up and down. It makes a much better fire—nothing like a little science, you know."

The unimpressed landlady spoke in a hard voice that almost stopped the lodger's watch: "I always charge two dollars extra for scientific gents."

Not Worth While

LITTLE Leslie had returned from school with his term's report, which his father studied in silence.

"Leslie," he remarked, when he had laid it aside, "you're not doing so badly, but I am sorry to see your general behavior is not as good as it might be. If you can improve it next term, I'll give you a watch."

The small boy gave the matter a certain amount of consideration before he answered.

"No, daddy," he replied finally; "I can't accept your offer. I'm having too much fun at school."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

IT'S getting pretty tough for the old boys out west now, when they have heard that in most places they got to have a permit to carry a gun. It reminds somebody of a real tough guy that was elected coroner, and he come down town the next day with four pistols and three knives and a lot of ammunition on him.

"What you got all the ironworks for?" says one of the loafers.

"Why," says Lem, "I made some enemies in the campaign, and I'm goin' to take care of 'em, now that I got elected."

"But you only made enemies out of the guy that was running against you and his wife. Gee, you got enough armament there to lick the whole country."

"Well, I'm not going to let my enemies put anything over on me. I got a good outfit here, and if I ain't got enough enemies to justify it, I guess I can always go out and make some more."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

MARGERY LAWRENCE (Mrs. Arthur Towle doesn't want to be a mother. She tells all about it in the January number of the Cosmopolitan. According to Mrs. Towle, real mothers don't just happen. They get a call. She describes that call intriguingly.

"Somewhere out in the void, that a few of us, with humility and patience, are trying to explore wait the souls that must be incarnate—in their own good time or in God's good time—in mortal flesh. I firmly believe that when a soul chooses its place on earth—as I think they do—a silent call goes forth from that spark of divinity on the Other Side and wakes a response on This Side, in the soul of the mother that is to be. . . and that then, gloriously, certainly, unmistakably, the desire for motherhood is born! The woman desires a child. That to me, is the only true motherhood—when beyond all doubt or wondering, deeply, sincerely, one knows that one wishes to bear a child"

Such is the Call which divinely ordained mothers receive, according to Mrs. Towle. Since she hasn't received it, she is politely but firmly refusing motherhood. And, having read her article, several thousand other young women who have been looking for a good excuse, will probably refuse it also.

Now, I don't care whether Mrs. Towle has a baby or not. Nor do I care whether those thousands of other young women become mothers. But as a mother, I do protest against this article. And I rise to announce that the theory of Divine Calls echoing through the infinite is all blah and is apt to lead to a lot of misunderstanding and disappointment, and a greatly lowered census.

Motherhood is not ushered in with a heavenly fanfare.

It generally happens as the great things in life are apt to happen. It happens with peevishness and boredom and a lot of tiresome detail. We are not suddenly elected by the Lord to be mothers. We are not purged of our laziness and meanness and initiated into the inner mysteries. We come to motherhood as we come to our other big chores—chuckful of cussedness. And that is why motherhood is such an amazing miracle.

For God doesn't stage a special demonstration to make us mothers. Out of our weak and foolish commonness the miracle is born. Out of our ordinary cowardice and selfishness comes the greatest display of courage and love of which humanity is capable. And in spite of our peevish reluctance, we enter into the deepest pride and joy which the human heart can know.

That is the truth about motherhood.

Mrs. Towle is a smart and beautiful young woman who thinks her attitude toward motherhood is exceptional. It isn't. It has been shared by all mothers since Eve bore Cain and wished she had never eaten the apple. No woman with the sense God gave a gooseberry, hankers after the job—beforehand. But try and take her baby away after she has one and see where you get off!

ECLIPSE IN MAY

By Garrett P. Serviss

WHAT a curious lot we Earth people are! But our curiosity is mostly to our credit. It is intellectual and concerns things above the mere animal level. There is certainly something more of us than the biologists can explain. Consider, for instance, what is being prepared, simultaneously in many different countries, for the afternoon of next May 9.

At that time the sun will be totally eclipsed. Then will be seen—as has happened many times within the last hundred years—a gathering of astronomers of all nations toward a limited part of the earth's surface from which the eclipse can be viewed. Their expenditures will represent in the aggregate a large sum of money; their efforts will be a notable exertion of human mentality—perhaps as much as is concerned in the preparation and conduct of a great military campaign, or even more.

The object is to see and study again that awe-inspiring and mysterious portion of the sun which the vast majority of the world's inhabitants have never even glimpsed, the portion which lies around the visible solar globe, and is probably instrumental by ways yet unguessed in the exercise of the sun's command over its little dependent, the earth. The largest and most conspicuous part of this phenomenon, visible only during the few seconds, or at most minutes, of a total eclipse is called the solar corona. Is it gas, is it dust, is it disintegrated atoms, or what? At any rate the shapes that it assumes seem to typify the changing influence of the sun upon our planet.

This thing is more than 90,000,000 miles away; it is inaccessible to and uncontrollable by us; it is visible only in brief glimpses, at long intervals, from different parts of the earth; now here, now thousands of miles away, and never but in a questionable shape, so flimsy in aspect, so like an unsubstantial vision, that it is a tribute to the acuity of the human mind and senses that it was ever noticed, to say nothing of its becoming an object of the most intense and specialized study and the subject of volumes of description and analysis.

They say we are only material automats; that what we take for thought is a mere chemical by-product, that like the sun-flower we are turned this way and that by simple external stimuli, that we are wound up like clocks and our acts are not controlled by conscious will! Well, it doesn't look like that when the astronomers gather on some remote island in a distant ocean to watch an eclipse of the sun, whose occurrence they have themselves foreseen and calculated! Our eating and drinking and our purely physical enjoyments of life may be as automatic as you choose, but there is something more than automatism or physical determination concerned when men set out to discover the secrets of the universe in which they live, when they first suspect and then proceed to find out and measure the mastership of the distant sun over its tributary earth.

The eclipse in May will be seen only in the Indian Ocean, the East India Islands, the Malay peninsula, the South China Sea, and the Philippines.

Bible Passages

"Judge Me, O Lord."

(Psalm 26)

JUDGE me, O Lord; for I have walked in mine integrity: I have also trusted also in the Lord; therefore I shall not slide.

Examine me, O Lord, and prove me; try my reins and my heart.

For thy loving kindness is before mine eyes; and I have walked in thy truth.

I have not sat with vain persons, neither will I go in with dissemblers.

I have hated the congregation of evil doers; and will not sit with the wicked.

I will wash mine hands in innocency; so will I compass thine altar, O Lord:

That I may publish with the voice of thanksgiving, and tell of all thy wondrous works.

Lord, I have loved the habitation of thy house and the place where thine honor dwelleth.

Gather not my soul with sinners, nor my life with bloody men:

In whose hands is mischief, and their right hand is full of bribes.

But as for me, I will walk in mine integrity: redeem me, and be merciful unto me.

My foot standeth in an even place: in the congregations will I bless the Lord.

Your Letter

BECAUSE I heard from you today
The blue crept out through clouds of gray
And though north wind
Had seemed unkind,
His roaring now is harmless, gay.

Your letter, such a little thing,
Changed Winter thoughts to dreams of Spring;
It seemed I heard
Joy, like a bird,
Within my deeps of being sing.

Because I heard from you today
You are no longer far away,
But close at hand
I know you stand,
Your nearness brightens all the way.

Your letter, by some magic spell,
Brings more than any pen could tell;
Love's clear refrain
Rings out again,
I know life's sweet and all is well!

Dictionaries of biography and Social Registers have other opinions. Wall Street won't concur either.

But the canyon peaks of Manhattan challenge the country to produce three citizens whose careers offer more convincing or dramatic evidence that this is still a land of opportunity—proof of which is Democracy's chief stock in trade.

Lefcourt sold newspapers before he built Garment Centers.

Winter was a house painter before he rebuilt upper Fifth Avenue.

The Chanins were stone-broke doughboys before they began to crowd the town with theaters and office rookeries.

They hadn't the money to buy canned ideas and packaged viewpoints. They were too poor to purchase standardized vision, or send their minds to collegiate riding academies, where class thought is trained to trot in regular rings.

Their pockets never mingled with content-blinded wealth; they knew none of the fine folk whose cars sped by too fast to notice the tracks of human herds restlessly moving to new pastures of fortune.

Their feet dragged the pavement as they tramped the city for work, but their eyes were reading cornice lines, calculating unfilled spaces and measuring the distance between what had been and what might be.

They had no assets except the five senses with which other bare-handed men before them had attacked success—the capital which poverty compels folk to invest, or starve.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The hardest boiled strip in the so-called Tenderloin lies between Forty-fifth and Fiftieth street, bounded on the west by Tenth avenue and on the east by Sixth avenue according to those making a study of racketeering and other gyp gestures.

It is in this area most of the new versions of thimble-rigging on the circus lot are exploited—where the wise ones learn they are not so wise. It is the milieu of the night cab drivers who "promote" drunks in the take joints for a percentage of spoils.

Here are beauty parlors, millinery and shoe shops, speakeasies, cellar cabarets, massage rooms, sandwich salons, chop suey and chili joints that laze through the day but swarm with activity at night. Many are respectable, but the majority are outfitted solely for the sucker trade.

Innumerable shady hotels, filled with kimonaed ladies and their shaggy white poodles, offer a perfect haven for those whose lives are concentrated to halving the apple at Broadway's pagan feasts. To the stranger their hospitality is sullen. Wilson Milzner observed their only rule was that guests must mop up the blood.

Almost every morning at dawn in this district will be found befuddled stay-outs being piloted to the curb fumbling for something or other they can use for money for a taxi ride to their hotels. They have had their touch of high life in the Forties and, O boy, what a headache.

A new sort of lady has become an adroit cafe worker. She is no longer in evening gown as a part of the establishment. She is to-all appearances only a lonely gal out for a little slumming. With a sly wink or some such subtlety she makes her acquaintances. And giddap, the party is on.

She gets half of what he spends. It is estimated every night there are some 10,000 lonely gentlemen aching to kick up their heels and see the sights and go home more misunderstood than ever. These are the lads for whom the gyp joints bait the traps. The only safe way is to travel in groups. And drink mineral water.

There is a contrasting relief from the Tenderloin in the pleasant peace of Riverside Drive. In the past year it seems to have been rediscovered and has become one of the most popular promenades in the city. The walks and winding paths skirting down to the river swarm with strollers and the benches are comfortably filled. There is a fairyland of beauty in the craft on the Hudson—yachts, motor boats, side-wheelers to Albany, gray battleships and tugs. Across the river are the cowling Jersey hills and the poetic palisades. And at night when an impertinent moon unfurls a silver ribbon across the rippling river one feels an urge to be young and in love again.

Autograph hunters are more active this season than ever before. They used to confine activities to stage doors, but they now enter cafes, crash private parties and even solicit newspaper columnists. One who secured an unadorned autograph grudgingly recently insisted: "Please write a little sentiment."

The celebrity seized the book and dashed off: "To a confirmed pest!" And if you'll come a little closer we will whisper we heard it was the gallant John Gilbert.

The company supplying New York's light at night reports New York begins going to sleep around 9 and 10 o'clock and by 12 almost everybody is "sawing wood." If their records are to be believed scarcely no one is awake at 3 a. m. We get around a lot for a country jake and heard different.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

A PROFESSOR at Columbia made the remark to his class last week that education isn't a matter of going to college; that he himself got his best education taking tickets at a burlesque show.

Some of the women in his teacher classes laughed. Others marked him for something he isn't at all. My guess is that the women who laughed are the best teachers.

The professor, wishing to enjoy himself further, said with a wicked twinkle in his eye, that as a matter of fact women were not right more than half of the time. He added:

"Take, for instance, cooking chicken. They run cold water over it. And what does that do? Certainly it doesn't get the chicken clean. Now I can cook the best chicken you ever ate, and I give it a regular bath with soap and water before I cook it. My chicken is clean and the taste is altogether different."

And the women teachers aren't sure yet whether or not he does do that.

Los Angeles has a girl who makes pictures, and who laughs even when she tells you of the time she tried to get someone to give her a chinchilla coat and failed. To hear her tell it is worth the price of the coat.

"Mazie and I got the furrier on the wire," she tells you, giggling as she thinks back to the time of the incident, "and told him we were coming in with Mr. Whosit, and that he musn't show us anything but chinchilla coats. But that man knew coats and when he heard the price, he said to come along, he'd buy us a dinner that would keep us warm 'till we got home, wine and everything, and he didn't think our last year's fur coat looked so bad."

A primary teacher in Denver received a letter from a child who was in her class last year. It was decidedly complimentary and she read it to some of her pupils, and when she finished a little girl piped up: "I think she just said those things to make you feel good."

Babes and fools!

A United States Senator says he never wrote his wife a love letter before he married her, because, "being a lawyer," he knew it was dangerous. Had she known it she wouldn't be Mrs.——. Their daughter was married recently.

They have lost the fire of former years.

Resigned to their condition, their chief concern is to hold their present job as long as they can.

Time was when these men were higher up in the scale of employment even with the firm they now work for.

You look at these men and pity them.

You hope that you may not be so situated when you reach their age.

And that is about what they thought of men of years when they were at your age.

Now, if you are not an exceptional kind of young man, you are going along just about as they did.

You spend your money freely, have a good time, and don't feel called upon to exert yourself beyond the minimum limit to hold your job.

You are not studying to get the maximum wage and you are not trying to do extra work to assist your own advancement.

Think of the older men in your place and whether you are headed for jobs such as they have.
